2011-2012 GRANT APPLICATION GUIDELINES

In order to be considered for a grant from the National Institutes of Health, the applicant must be a U.S. or foreign organization. The purposes of grants for research and education studies related to the human condition are to promote and advance scientific knowledge through the advancement of research.

The National Institutes of Health also solicits research proposals from the health-related sectors of the private sector, which are funded through a separate process. These proposals are independently evaluated according to panel III, with NCIH's strategic health research priorities, study feasibility and cost, and the applicant's research history in the area. Researcher's interest in applying should include a term page proposal summary including the proposed project description, anticipated overall budget, a brief two-year project timeline, and existing resources and facilities for successful project completion. The application for each institution/proposed summary is due January 11, 2012.

Grant applications in terms of NCIH will not be considered. Grant applications will be accepted under the following 12 months issued and 12 month. Applications for the first year will not be evaluated. However, the first year of funding, equipment, infrastructure, and other programmatic resources for consideration.

Non-profit organizations interested in submitting a grant request to the National Institutes of Health should contact the NCIH Grant Coordinator. There is no official direct research application form. However, grant requests will not be considered without complete documentation as outlined in the NCIH Grant Guidelines.

- (1) Master and address of the last change representing organization making application.
- (2) A brief history of the applying organization along with its mission, strategic programs, and facilities, and budget for the current year.
- (3) A list of the current Board of Directors.
