Bloodties Nature Culture And The Hunt:

Bloodties Ted Kerasote, 1994 AN ARDENT ENVIRONMENTALIST AND HUNTER SEEKS OUR PROPER RELATIONSHIP TO THE ANIMAL WORLD For all readers who are perplexed over humanity's proper relationship to animals Ted Kerasote's provocative exploration of the ancient human urge to hunt will dramatize the issues that fuel this controversial debate In his opening section Food the author travels to the frozen shores of coastal Greenland living and hunting with Inuit villagers true hunter gatherers who are utterly dependent for sustenance on the seals polar bears and narwhal that they can wrest from their punishing environment In Trophies Kerasote accompanies the first Western sportsmen permitted into a remote stretch of Siberian wilderness one of whom uses unethical stratagems to bag the world's most coveted hunting trophy In Webs we meet a hunter caught between these two extremes the writer himself Stalking elk near his home in Wyoming seeking a winter's worth of meat Kerasote encounters the pull of himself that yearns to make the kill and take the wild creature's life force into his own body Nearing the end of his odyssey the author attends meetings of the Fund for Animals with the organization's director a vehement opponent of hunting Kerasote also examines the ecological consequences of eating food produced by our agribusiness system and transported in fossil fuel consuming refrigerator trucks next he considers the environmental impact of the death of the prey that has given its life to the hunter Scrupulously balanced Bloodties is a memorable book for all lovers of the outdoors both hunters and nonhunters and a landmark in the evolving discussion of our proper relationship to the animal world

Talking to the Shaman Within Manfred F. R. Kets de Vries, 2014-06-17

Everything about hunting leads inexorably to death the challenge for all hunters is how to justify the kill But the hunter's emotional response to the kill is immensely complex Hunters respect and even love the animals they kill Talking to the Shaman Within Musings on Hunting addresses this paradox head on dissecting the emotional and psychological response of the hunter to his quarry and more broadly his surroundings The climax of the chase brings the hunter closer to realizing the nature intelligence that modern civilization has suppressed Through his investigation of the instinct that lies beneath the urge to hunt author Manfred F R Kets de Vries reveals something basic and fundamental about human behavior The hunting instinct is hardwired into the human psyche and for all our sophistication and urbanization it exerts a powerful influence over the way we conduct our lives even to this day Talking to the Shaman Within draws on depictions of hunting in art and literature throughout the ages exploring changing trends in human social norms with frequent reference to literature art film television and music It unites a dispassionate academic hypothesis with an engaging and colourful narrative into which Kets de Vries weaves stories from his own life as both an academic and a hunter

The Afterlives of Animals Samuel J. M. M. Alberti, 2011-09-20 In the quiet halls of the natural history museum there are some creatures still alive with stories whose personalities refuse to be relegated to the dusty corners of an exhibit The fame of these beasts during their lifetimes has given them an iconic status in death More than just museum specimens these animals have attained a second life as historical and cultural records This collection of essays from a broad array of contributors including anthropologists curators fine artists geographers historians and journalists comprises short biographies of a number of famous taxidermized animals Each essay traces the life death and museum afterlife of a specific creature illuminating the overlooked role of the dead beast in the modern human animal encounter through practices as disparate as hunting and zookeeping The contributors offer fresh examinations of the many levels at which humans engage with other animals especially those that function as both natural and cultural phenomena including Queen Charlotte's pet zebra Maharajah the elephant and Balto the sled dog among others Readers curious about the enduring fascination with animals who have attained these strange afterlives will be drawn to the individual narratives within each essay while learning more about the scientific cultural and museological contexts of each subject Ranging from autobiographical to analytical the contributors' varying styles make this delightful book a true menagerie Contributors Samuel J M M Alberti Royal College of Surgeons Sophie Everest University of Manchester Kate Foster Michelle Henning University of the West of England Bristol Hayden Lorimer University of Glasgow Garry Marvin Roehampton University London Henry Nicholls Hannah Paddon Merle Patchett Christopher Plumb University of Manchester Rachel Poliquin Jeanne Robinson Glasgow Museums Mike Rutherford University of the West Indies Richard C Sabin Natural History Museum Richard Sutcliffe Glasgow Museums Geoffrey N Swinney University of Edinburgh The Palgrave

Klein, 2019-07-15 This is an innovative and collaborative life history of one of Alaska's pioneering wildlife biologists David R Klein has been a leader in promoting habitat studies across wildlife research in Alaska and this is his first hand account of how science and biological fieldwork has been carried out in Alaska in the last sixty years This book tells the stories of how Klein did his science and the inspiration behind the research while exposing the thinking that underlies particular scientific theories In addition this book shows the evolution of Alaska's wildlife management regimes from territorial days to statehood to the era of big oil The first portion of the book is comprised of stories from Klein's life collected during oral history interviews while the latter section contains essays written by Klein about philosophical topics of importance to him such as eco philosophy the definition of wilderness and the morality of hunting Many of Klein's graduate students have gone on to become successful wildlife managers themselves in Alaska and around the globe Through The Making of an Ecologist Klein's outlook philosophy and approach toward sustainability wildlife management and conservation can now inspire even more readers to ensure the survival of our fragile planet in an ever changing global society A Rat Is a Pig Is a Dog Is a Boy Wesley J. Smith, 2012 Overview In A Rat is a Pig is a Dog is a Boy Wesley Smith explains how over the past thirty years the concept of animal rights has undergone literal and extreme interpretations in Western culture. Although there are activists who seek better treatment of animals through welfare work, there are also those who see animal rights as a belief system, an ideology, and for some even a quasi religion that both implicitly and explicitly seeks to create a moral equivalency between the value of human lives and those of animals. Smith explains how animal rights ideologues embrace their beliefs with a fervency that is remarkably intense and sustained to the point that some dedicate their entire lives to speaking for those who cannot speak for themselves. Some believe their cause to be so righteous that they engage in vandalism, harassment, or even terrorism at the expense of medical research, the clothing and food industries, and others accused of animal abuse. For those of us who respect and appreciate animals but who also understand that our obligation to humanity matters more, A Rat is a Pig is a Dog is a Boy is an important case against an increasingly radical dogma.

Wildlife Conservation in China Richard B. Harris, 2014-12-18 Very little is known about the issue of wildlife conservation within China. Even China specialists get a meager ration of stories about pandas giving birth in zoos or poachers in some remote setting being apprehended. But what does the future hold for China's wildlife? In this thoughtful work, the leading U.S. expert on wildlife projects in Western China presents a multi-faceted assessment of the topic. Richard B. Harris draws on twenty years of experience working in China and incorporates perspectives ranging from biology through Chinese history and tradition to interpret wildlife conservation issues in a cultural context. In non-technical language, Harris shows that particularly in its vast western sections, where most species of wildlife still have a chance to survive, China has adopted a strongly preservationist, hands-off approach to wildlife without confronting the larger and more difficult problem of habitat loss. This policy treats wildlife conservation as a strictly technical problem and thus prioritizes captive breeding to meet the demand for animal products while ignoring the manifold cultural, social, and economic dimensions that truly dictate how wild animals will fare in their interaction with the physical and human environments. The author concludes that any successes this policy achieves will be temporary.

Seal Victoria Dickenson, 2015-11-15 Playful and inquisitive seals have long been interested in humans, and humans have reciprocated that interest, falling for their beauty, grace, and charm as they frolic alongside our boats or loll on sandy shores. In this newest entry in the Animal series, Victoria Dickenson traces the history of our interaction with these beautiful, fascinating swimmers from the centuries of hunting in which people killed countless seals for their skin, oil, and meat to the present when the white-furred baby seal has become one of the most potent symbols of the need for ecological conservation. Along the way, she offers an approachable account of seal biology and behavior and delineates the threats they face from habitat destruction and climate change. Beautifully illustrated and packed with stories from folklore, myth, and history, Seal offers a richly immersive view of a much-loved, storied creature.
