Mother Country Stephen Bourne, 2010-08-10 Very little attention has been given to black British and West African and Caribbean citizens who lived and worked on the front line during the Second World War Yet black people were under fire in cities like Bristol Cardiff Liverpool London and Manchester and many volunteered as civilian defence workers such as air raid wardens fire fighters stretcher bearers first aid workers and mobile canteen personnel Many helped unite people when their communities faced devastation Black children were evacuated and entertainers risked death when they took to the stage during air raids Despite some evidence of racism black people contributed to the war effort where they could The colonies also played an important role in the war effort support came from places as far away as Trinidad Jamaica Guyana and Nigeria Mother Country tells the story of some of the forgotten Britons whose contribution to the war effort has been overlooked until now

Extras of Early Hollywood Kerry Segrave, 2013-04-26 Pity the extras Mostly overlooked and forgotten Especially those in the major Hollywood films 1913 to 1945 right through the dream factory s golden era The struggles of extras to unionize were followed by internal struggles as the extras fought for a voice within that union There were just too few jobs for far too many extras some of whom were lured to Hollywood by what seemed to be rags to riches tales of stardom but which were likely little more than industry publicity plants Once lured to the film capital the reality was much different low pay little or no work ripoffs from private employment agencies and sexual harassment of the women likely very much underreported Some extras had special skills or language abilities some had wardrobes replete with many period costumes
