A Handbook for Translator Trainers Dorothy Kelly, 2014-04-23 The community of translator trainers is growing constantly as new courses are set up in diverse contexts throughout the world After a brief overview of current approaches to translator training this book offers practical guidance to sound training practices in different contexts Given the very wide variety of backgrounds translator trainers come from the text aims to be equally of use to language teachers new to translation to professional translators new to teaching or training to recent graduates in translation intending to embark on academic careers in translation studies and to more experienced trainers wishing to reflect on their activity or to train new trainers For that reason no specific prior knowledge or experience of training is taken for granted A systematic approach to curriculum and syllabus design is adopted guiding readers from the writing of learning outcomes or objectives through to the design of teaching and learning activities to the assessment of learning and course evaluation all this applied throughout in detail to the field of translation Chapters contain exercises and activities designed to promote reflection on practice and to help trainers to develop their teaching skills as well as their own course material These activities are suitable both for self learners and for groups on trainer training and staff development courses

Beyond Descriptive Translation Studies Anthony Pym, Miriam Shlesinger, Daniel Simeoni, 2008-03-13 To go beyond the work of a leading intellectual is rarely an unambiguous tribute However when Gideon Toury founded Descriptive Translation Studies as a research based discipline he laid down precisely that intellectual challenge not just to describe translation but to explain it through reference to wider relations That call offers at once a common base an open and multidirectional ambition and many good reasons for unambiguous tribute The authors brought together in this volume include key players in Translation Studies who have responded to Toury's challenge in one way or another Their diverse contributions address issues such as the sociology of translators contemporary changes in intercultural relations the fundamental problem of defining translations the nature of explanation and case studies including pseudotranslation in Renaissance Italy Sherlock Holmes in Turkey and the coffee and sugar economy in Brazil All acknowledge Translation Studies as a research based space for conceptual coherence and creativity all seek to explain as well as describe In this sense we believe that Toury's call has been answered beyond expectations

Translating Cultures David Katan, Mustapha Taïbi, 2021-06-17 This bestselling coursebook introduces current understanding about culture and provides a model for teaching culture to translators interpreters and other mediators The approach is interdisciplinary with theory from Translation Studies and beyond while authentic texts and translations illustrate intercultural issues and strategies adopted to overcome them This new third edition has been thoroughly revised to update scholarship and examples and now includes new languages such as Arabic Chinese German Japanese Russian and Spanish and examples from interpreting settings This edition revisits the chapters based on recent developments in scholarship in intercultural communication cultural mediation translation and interpreting It aims to achieve a more balanced representation of written and spoken communication by giving more attention to interpreting than the previous editions especially in interactional settings Enriched with discussion of key recent scholarly contributions each practical example has been revisited and or updated Complemented with online resources which may be used by both teachers and students this is the ideal resource for all students of translation and interpreting as well as any reader interested in communication across cultural divides Additional resources are available on the Routledge Translation Studies Portal <http://routledgetranslationstudiesportal.com>

The Ecosystem of the Foreign Language Learner Ewa Piechurska-Kuciel, Magdalena Szyszka, 2015-03-12 This volume examines selected aspects of the foreign language learning process from an ecological perspective adopting a holistic view on complex interrelations among and within organisms L2 language learners and their milieus family school and society First of all the personal ecosystem of the learner is taken into consideration whereby two powerful influences are intertwined cognitive and affective aspects The learning space formed by the individual is largely shaped by their affective states coexisting in conjunction with their cognitive processes Moreover this specific space is also modified by a wider array of other personal ecosystems or those of cultures Hence the ecosystem of the foreign language learner is also subject to influences coming from sociocultural leverage that can be represented by people they know like parents and language teachers who can both directly and indirectly manipulate their ecosystem At the same time other important forces such as culture as a ubiquitous element in the foreign language learning process also have the power to shape that ecosystem Accordingly the book is divided into three parts covering a range of topics related to these basic dimensions of foreign language acquisition the cognitive affective and socio cultural Part I Affective Interconnections focuses on the body of original empirical research into the affective domain of not only L2 language learners but also non native language teachers Part II Cognitive Interconnections reports on contributions on language learners linguistic processing and cognitive representations of concepts The closing part Socio cultural Interconnections provides new insights into language learning processes as they are affected by social and cultural factors

Reflections on Translation Theory Andrew Chesterman, 2017-04-26 Originally published in different journals and collected volumes these papers in conceptual analysis cover some central topics in translation theory and research types of theory and hypothesis causality and explanation norms strategies and so called universals translation sociology and ethics There are critical reviews of Catford's theory and of Skopos theory and of Kundera's views on literary translation and detailed analyses of the literal translation hypothesis and the unique items hypothesis The methodological discussions which draw on work in the philosophy of science will be of special relevance to younger researchers for example those starting work on a doctorate Some of the arguments and positions defended for instance on the significant status of conceptual interpretive hypotheses and the ideal of consilience relate to wider ongoing debates and will interest any scholar who is concerned about the increasing fragmentation of the field and about the future of Translation Studies Let the dialogue continue
