Dramatizations of Social Change: Herman Heijermans' Plays as Compared with Selected Dramas by Ibsen, Hauptmann and Chekhov Hilda van Neck Yoder, 2013-11-11 Herman Heijermans 1864 1924 was convinced that he lived in an overgangs 1 tijdperk a transitional period As a young man in the eighteen nineties he rejected those values and life styles

which he felt belonged to the past period dominated by the bourgeoisie and sought out situations and a profession which would attune him to the future when he hoped the proletariat would be in power He left the conservative business milieu of Rotterdam in 1892 and went to Amsterdam then teeming with radical ideas At first Heijermans was attracted to a group of poets de tachtigers who were claiming to have enlivened the stale tradition of Dutch poetry by discovering language and beauty in a totally new way but soon he felt them to be elitist Then in 1895 he became a member of the newly founded Dutch Social Democratic Workers Party He alienated himself from the literary circles by claiming that art should be socialistic and by rejecting the class separation between artists and workers He felt himself to be one with the proletariat and through them with The New Life and The New Humanity Stimulated by the ongoing theater revival which he interpreted as an attempt to challenge the bourgeois smugness and moral self righteousness he had started to write plays before becoming interested in the Socialist Party

Media in Motion Elisabeth Eide, 2016-04-29 Owing to increased migration dating from the 1990s Nordic countries have gone through substantial cultural and social changes resulting in increased debate surrounding the politics of multiculturalism One of the central realms of the discussion around multiculturalism in the Nordic region concerns the media which is considered to be a vital factor in the construction of society's values as well as an essential tool in the integration process of migrants providing as it does a symbolic arena for learning about and becoming part of society This collection draws together the latest research from Denmark Finland Norway and Sweden to look at different aspects of the relationship between media and migration in the Nordic region Exploring the role played by the media in nation building and the power of the media in the definition of who belongs in society Media in Motion examines the practices of inclusion and exclusion that characterise mainstream media representations The book also examines the manner in which recent technological changes suggest the emergence of a transnational and cosmopolitan media landscape a space which blurs the boundaries of the national and transnational as well as between the public and the private with significant implications for the ways migrants may take and become part of society As such it will be of interest to those working in the fields of media race and ethnicity colonialism and postcolonial studies and migration

Subject to Change : Guerrilla Television Revisited Deirdre Boyle Professor of History New York University, 1997-02-25 Before the Internet camcorders and hundred channel cable systems predating the Information Superhighway and talk of cyber democracy there was guerilla television Part of the larger alternative media tide which swept the country in the late sixties guerilla television emerged when the arrival of lightweight affordable consumer video equipment made it possible for ordinary people to make their own television Fueled both by outrage at the day's events and by the writings of people like Marshall McLuhan Tom Wolfe and Hunter S Thompson the movement gained a manifesto in 1971 when Michael Shamberg and the raindance Corp published Guerilla Television As framed in this quixotic text the goal of the video guerilla was nothing less than a reshaping of the structure of information in America In Subject to Change Deidre Boyle tells the fascinating story of the first TV generation's dream of remaking television and their frustrated attempts at democratizing the medium Interweaving the narratives of three very different video collectives from the 1970s TVTV Broadside TV and University Community Video Boyle offers a thought provoking account of an earlier electronic utopianism one with significant implications for today s debates over free speech public discourse and the information explosion
