in life Sport, Play, and Ethical Reflection Randolph Feezell, 2010-10-01 In paperback for the first time Randolph Feezell's Sport Play and Ethical Reflection immediately tackles two big questions about sport: What is it and Why does it attract so many people? Feezell argues that sports participation is best described as a form of human play and the attraction for participants and viewers alike derives from both its aesthetic richness and narrative structure. He then claims that the way in which sports encourage serious competition in trivial pursuits is fundamentally absurd and therefore participation requires a state of irony in the participants where seriousness and playfulness are combined. Feezell builds on these conclusions addressing important ethical issues, arguing that sportsmanship should be seen as a kind of Aristotelian mean between the extremes of over and under investment in sport. Chapters on cheating, running up the score, and character building stress sport as a rule-governed tradition bound practice with standards of excellence and goods internal to the practice. With clear writing and numerous illuminating examples, Feezell demonstrates deep insight into both of his subjects.

Phenomenology in a New Key: Between Analysis and History Jeffrey Bloechl, Nicolas de Warren, 2015-01-19 In this collection of essays, the sophistication and vibrancy of contemporary phenomenological research is documented, including both its engagement with key figures in the history of philosophy and with critical problems defining future directions of philosophical investigations. It honors the writings of Richard Cobb Stevens, whose work in phenomenological philosophy, analytic philosophy, and the history of philosophy has served as a model for generations of philosophers working between these three fields of research. The essays collected in this volume provide a unique window on the contemporary state of the art in phenomenological philosophy by leading scholars of international reputation from North America and Europe. Historical figures such as Aristotle and Hobbes are innovatively brought into dialogue with phenomenological thinking. Phenomenological thinking is brought to bear on a wide variety of problems from the nature of artworks and photography to questions concerning consciousness and knowledge. Among the topics discussed in these specially commissioned essays are phenomenology and Aristotle, the nature of the primal ego, Hobbes and Husserl, intentionality and reference, Neo-Aristotelian ethics, Husserl and Wittgenstein, photography, and the nature of artworks.

Relationships-Reflection of the Image of God Crawford Clark, 2016-07-25 There are many couples struggling in their relationships with each other. Couples who are dating and who are married are settling for less than God's best. There are several reasons why, but perhaps there is a lack of understanding about the dynamics and expectations of their relationships. God lets us know He has a plan for our lives as well as our relationships. That plan for couples is to reflect His Image. In order to be able to look like God, we must be willing to look at what God intended for us and examine how we got into the predicament that many couples find themselves in. There is an enemy that constantly tries to keep you thinking that you are okay in your relationship with God and your life mate. Can we honestly say that we are where we need to be in our relationship with God and with each other? In this book, you will find out from Genesis how God created us in His Image and how we are able to live His image every day in our lives. He created us to be a reflection of His image and that image reveals itself in many ways Every couple can be that reflection even if you find your relationship or marriage in shambles This book offers you the answers and the steps to grow as a couple through Christ As a couple you can reflect the presence of Jesus and truly inspire others This can happen if you allow the word of God and the Holy Spirit to transform your relationship to be a powerful witness for Christ You can become a Reflection of His Image
