Educational Testing United States. General Accounting Office,1993 The experience of the Canadian provinces with large scale testing programs is reviewed to suggest answers to questions currently discussed in the United States regarding the proposed national system of achievement testing In the Canadian provinces tests are linked to provincial curricula Standards and assessments are not set by experts with no direct responsibility for implementing curriculum and instruction but are prepared with the cooperation of teachers and administrators Assessments cover broad subject areas and monitor the overall education system and examinations certify individuals mastery of specific high school courses The provinces have not found it necessary to attach high stakes to all tests Examination results are used in conjunction with teacher assigned grades and assessments have no consequences for individual students Safeguards have been developed for each type of test and provincial school funding formulas which are independent of the testing process tend to level resources among schools within a province Most Canadian educators and the public support the testing programs but they have no hard evidence that the programs lead directly to improved instruction Appendixes list characteristics of the provincial programs participants in site and telephone interviews and major contributors to the report Fourteen tables provide information about the testing programs Contains 8 references SLD Educational Testing ,1993-12 A review of the experiences of the Canadian provinces with large scale testing programs to suggest answers to questions discussed currently in the U S regarding this proposal In the Canadian provinces tests are linked to provincial curricula and measure the extent to which students have achieved provincial standards developed through the widespread involvement of teachers provincial officials and subject area experts

The English Catalogue of Books ,1884 Diversity in Mathematics Education Alan Bishop,Hazel Tan,Tasos N Barkatsas,2014-09-20 This book presents a research focus on diversity and inclusivity in mathematics education The challenge of diversity largely in terms of student profiles or contextual features is endemic in mathematics education and is often argued to require differentiation as a response Typically different curricula text materials task structures or pedagogies are favoured responses but huge differences in achievement still result If we in mathematics education seek to challenge that status quo more research must be focussed not just on diversity but also on the inclusivity of practices in mathematics education The book is written by a group of experienced collaborating researchers who share this focus It is written for researchers research students teachers and in service professionals who recognise both the challenges but also the opportunities of creating and evaluating new inclusive approaches to curriculum and pedagogy ones that take for granted the positive values of diversity Several chapters report new research in this direction The authors are part of or have visited with the mathematics education staff of the Faculty of Education at Monash University in Melbourne Australia The chapters all focus on the ideas of development in both research and practice recognising that the current need is for new inclusive approaches The studies presented are set in different contexts including Australia China the United States and Singapore
