International Journal of Educational Reform,1997-04-01 The mission of the International Journal of Educational Reform IJER is to keep readers up to date with worldwide developments in education reform by providing scholarly information and practical analysis from recognized international authorities As the only peer reviewed scholarly publication that combines authors voices without regard for the political affiliations perspectives or research methodologies IJER provides readers with a balanced view of all sides of the political and educational mainstream To this end IJER includes but is not limited to inquiry based and opinion pieces on developments in such areas as policy administration curriculum instruction law and research IJER should thus be of interest to professional educators with decision making roles and policymakers at all levels turn since it provides a broad based conversation between and among policymakers practitioners and academicians about reform goals objectives and methods for success throughout the world Readers can call on IJER to learn from an international group of reform implementers by discovering what they can do that has actually worked IJER can also help readers to understand the pitfalls of current reforms in order to avoid making similar mistakes Finally it is the mission of IJER to help readers to learn about key issues in school reform from movers and shakers who help to study and shape the power base directing educational reform in the U S and the world Journal of Career Education ,1975 Money Rules Henry Laurence,2001 Henry Laurence traces financial market reform in Britain and Japan over the last two decades charting the movement of the Anglo Saxon and Japanese styles of capitalism toward a new hybrid form of economic organization He explains what these two stories reveal about changes in the nature of business government relations in an age of convergence The package of reforms known in Britain as the Big Bang and in Japan as Biggu Bangu decontrolled prices liberalized the number and nature of financial instruments that could be traded opened both countries markets to foreigners and introduced a much greater degree of competition than would have been believed possible twenty years earlier At the same time Britain and Japan have undertaken stringent measures to improve the transparency and fairness of their markets Why did two countries with traditionally very different regulatory styles adopt such strikingly similar reforms and why did these reforms result in a mixture of deregulation in some areas and tighter control in others In explaining these apparent contradictions Laurence invokes the powerful domestic political impact of international capital mobility Money Rules challenges the view that bureaucracy is the most powerful actor in the policymaking process Using extensive interviews with more than one hundred policymakers and financial professionals in both countries the author rebuts conventional wisdom He argues that the events in Britain and Japan demonstrate striking crossnational convergence of political and economic institutions The Standard Course of Lessons and Exercises in the Tonic Sol-fa Method of Teaching Music John Curwen,1880 Musical Vulnerability Elizabeth H. MacGregor,2024-12-24 Since the early twenty first century music education across the world has been shaped by neoliberal discourse extolling the benefits of music upon academic achievement health and wellbeing and social development However such benefits are far from universal on the contrary music making often reveals our shortcomings and dependencies This highlights an urgent need for music education to be reframed by an understanding of musical vulnerability our inherent and situational openness to being affected by the semantic and somatic properties of music making Drawing on existing vulnerability studies this book evaluates how musicmaking can foster both positive receptivity and negative susceptibility depending on its delineation of self identity social identity and space and its embodiment through aural receptivity mimetic participation and affective transmission Through phenomenological ethnographic research with teachers and pupils it exposes how values espoused in the music classroom require the personal and interpersonal negotiation of conflicting musical expectations identities and abilities It makes recommendations for music education policymakers teachers and researchers in diverse global contexts suggesting the importance of developing pedagogies of vulnerability in order to foster caring classroom music making praxes that acknowledge music s capacity both to heal and to harm
