African Masterworks In The Detroit Institute Of Arts:

African Masterworks in the Detroit Institute of Arts Detroit Institute of Arts, Michael Kan, Roy Sieber, Mary Nooter Roberts, David W. Penney, Helen Shannon, 1995 African Masterworks in the Detroit Institute of Arts showcases eighty eight of the museum's finest works representing the full range of major sub-Saharan sculptural traditions during the past three centuries figures masks containers carved stools jewelry and musical instruments As noted in the introductory material almost all African art has a functional base each sculpture's primary justification is its effectiveness as a ritual or utilitarian object Text accompanying each photograph describes not only the circumstances when known of the object's creation but also the harmonious interplay of its aesthetic features and cultural and spiritual function The catalogue also details the rituals surrounding the religious objects and the social importance of the secular works Organized by region from the western Sudan to southern Africa the book includes essays on the history of each area as well as maps and an extensive bibliography Michael Kan the curator of the collection provides a history of the museum's African art acquisitions since 1900 and the introduction by Roy Sieber traces the evolution of Western appreciation for African art describing also the value placed on the objects by the community from which they arose

Michael Kan, 1995 Africa's Buildings Itohan I. Osayimwese, 2025-09-23 A groundbreaking history of Africa's looted architectural heritage and a bold proposal for the repatriation of the continent's stolen cultural artifacts Between the nineteenth century and today colonial officials collectors and anthropologists dismembered African buildings and dispersed their parts to museums in Europe and the United States Most of these artifacts were cataloged as ornamental art objects which erased their intended functions and the removal of these objects often had catastrophic consequences for the original structures Africa's Buildings traces the history of the collection and distribution of African architectural fragments documenting the brutality of the colonial regimes that looted Africa's buildings and addressing the ethical questions surrounding the display of these objects Itohan Osayimwese ranges across the whole of Africa from Egypt in the north to Zimbabwe in the south and spanning the western central and eastern regions of the continent She describes how collectors employed violent means to remove elements such as columns and door panels from buildings and how these methods differentiated architectural collecting from conventional collecting She shows how Western collectors mischaracterized building components as ornament erasing their architectural character and concealing the evidence of their theft Osayimwese discusses how the very act of displacing building parts like floor tiles and woven screen walls has resulted in a loss of knowledge about their original function and argues that because of these removals scholars have yet to fully grasp the variety and character of African architecture Richly illustrated Africa's Buildings uncovers the vast scale of cultural displacement perpetrated by the West and proposes a new role for museums in this history one in which they champion the repatriation of Africa's architectural heritage and restitution for African communities
