Biblical Studies Afr Sg 2012:

Religion and Society in Sub-Saharan Africa and Southern Asia Carole Rakodi, 2019-03-18 This book analyses how religion is entangled in people's lives in Sub-Saharan Africa and southern Asia. It provides an introduction to the teachings, practices and values promoted by the main religious traditions in these regions and an overview of the evidence on what religion means to people in terms of their beliefs and religious practices and how it influences their values, attitudes and day-to-day relationships with others, especially their families. Over the course of the book, Carole Rakodi explores similarities and differences between and within religious traditions and identifies some of the key factors that influence and explain the roles played by religion in people's personal lives and social relationships. A separate companion volume will go on to focus on the social and political roles and relationships of religious groups and organisations. This book will be of great interest to academics and students working in a range of disciplines, especially sociology, religious studies and development studies, but also anthropology, geography and area studies. Religion and Social Reconstruction in Africa Elias Kifon

Bongmba, 2018-06-13 Religion has played a major role in both the division and unification of peoples and countries within Africa. Its capacity to cause and to heal societal rifts has been well documented. This book addresses this powerful societal force and explores the implications of a theology of reconstruction, most notably articulated by Jesse Mugambi. This way of thinking seeks to build on liberation theology, aiming to encourage the rebuilding of African society on its own terms. An international panel of contributors brings an interdisciplinary perspective to the issues around reconstructing the religious elements of African society. Looking at issues of reconciliation, postcolonialism and indigenous spirituality, among others, they show that Mugambi's cultural and theological insight has the potential to revolutionise the way people in Africa address this issue. This is a fascinating exploration of the religious facets of African life. As such, it will be of great interest to scholars of religious studies, theology and African studies. Persistence of Race Nina G. Jablonski, 2020-02-25 This is the third and final group of essays emerging from the discussions of the Effects of Race Project at the Stellenbosch Institute for Advanced Study (STIAS) that occurred in 2016 and 2017. The authors consider the biological and social understandings of race and how new information from both the biological and social sciences is changing our perspective on the nature of the human condition, including the association of biological and social phenomena with race. They also look at global events or movements which influence these processes in South Africa and the costs of a racialised world order to humans and humanity. Phenomena are examined through the lenses of many disciplines: sociology, history, geography, anthropology and writing. Ideologies and

Religious Offences in Common Law Asia Li-ann Thio, Jaclyn L Neo, 2021-02-25 This book provides in depth comparative analysis of how religious penal clauses have been developed and employed within Asian common law states and the impact of such developments on constitutional rights By examining the theoretical and conceptual underpinnings of religious offences as well as interrogating the nature and impact of religious penal clauses within the region it contributes to the broader dialogue in relation to religious penal clauses globally whether in countries which practise forms of secular or religious constitutionalism Asian practice is significant in this respect given the centrality of religion to social life and indeed in some jurisdictions to constitutional or national identity Providing rigorous studies of common law jurisdictions that have adopted similar provisions in their penal code the contributors provide an original examination and analysis of the use and development of these religious clauses in their respective jurisdictions They draw upon their insights into the background sociopolitical and constitutional contexts to consider how the inter relationship of religion and state may determine the rationale and scope of religious offences These country by country chapters inform the conceptual examination of religious views and sentiments as a basis for criminality and the forms of harm that attract legal safeguards Several chapters examine these questions from a historical and comparative perspective considering the underlying bases and scope as well as evolving objectives of these provisions Through these examinations the book critically interrogates the legacy of colonialism on the criminal law and constitutional practice of various Asian states
