Business leaders are beginning to realize that the only way to achieve sustainable growth is by focusing on the customer. This is not a new idea, but it is a new reality. In the past, companies have focused on the product, the technology, or the service. But now, the customer is the center of the business. This is because the customer is the one who pays for the product or service. If the customer is not satisfied, the company will not be able to sustain its business. Therefore, business leaders must focus on the customer and create a customer-centric culture. This means listening to the customer, understanding their needs, and providing them with the best possible experience. By doing so, companies can build a loyal customer base and achieve sustainable growth.
