Lecky, 2023-12-01 This may be a very common concern we do not want to be forgotten Many go to great lengths to be remembered creating the larger cemetery monuments establishing endowments in their names and seeing to it that named bridges roads and buildings continue their memory And who intends to forget them But it often happens nonetheless Living Light is a focus of writing to preserve memory specifically on what made each of the strongest influences in my life most memorable to me Glimpses of the life of each of these individuals are presented in such a way as to illustrate the Light of faith I saw shining through their life These of whom you may read were all significant unique Living Lights in my life As I pondered and worked to complete this set of writings I could begin to see better the connection and influence of each of these individuals in what I think today and in all I was writing Clearly to me it was time to build this anthology of memory The writing of each entry is meant to honor and preserve the memory of the person whose story I am telling But the greater inspiration to write this comes from the pages of the Gospel of Matthew where Jesus is recorded saying in chapter 5 verse 6 Let your light shine before men in such a way that they may see your good works and glorify your Father who is in Heaven The works of each of these individuals became Living Light to me shining on steps of the Way of Light that is revealed as the best way of life for our travels here and now I am so grateful to The Father for each one of these people who have been so very significant in my life and I write that their works may shine on Yes I have written in the hope that the people about whom these words are written will not be forgotten In recognizing the Light that each of these individuals was able to shine in his or her unique way the greatest hope is that God will be glorified through the stories of their lives Beyond the

Distant Neighbors Gary Snyder, Wendell Berry, 2014-05-13 The letters are valuable for ecologists students and teachers of contemporary American literature and for those of us eager to know how these two distant neighbors networked negotiated and remained friends San Francisco Chronicle In Distant Neighbors both Berry and Snyder come across as honest and open hearted explorers There is an overall sense that they possess a deep and questing wisdom hard earned through land work travel writing and spiritual exploration There is no rushing no hectoring and no grand gestures between these two just an ever deepening inquiry into what makes a good life and how to live it even in the depths of the machine age Orion Magazine In 1969 Gary Snyder returned from a long residence in Japan to northern California to a homestead in the Sierra foothills where he intended to build a house and settle on the land with his wife and young sons He had just published his first book of essays Earth House Hold A few years before after a long absence Wendell Berry left New York City to return to land near his grandfather s farm in Port Royal Kentucky where he built a small studio and lived there with his wife as they restored an old house on their newly acquired homestead In 1969 Berry had just published Long Legged House These two founding members of the counterculture and of the new environmental movement had yet to meet but they knew each other's work and soon they began a correspondence. Neither man could have imagined the impact their work would have on American political and literary culture nor could they have appreciated the impact they would have on one another. Snyder had thrown over all vestiges of Christianity in favor of becoming a devoted Buddhist and Zen practitioner and had lived in Japan for a prolonged period to develop this practice. Berry's discomfort with the Christianity of his native land caused him to become something of a renegade Christian, troubled by the church and organized religion but grounded in its vocabulary and its narrative. Religion and spirituality seemed like a natural topic for the two men to discuss and discuss they did. They exchanged more than 240 letters from 1973 to 2013, remarkable letters of insight and argument. The two bring out the best in each other as they grapple with issues of faith and reason, discuss ideas of home and family, worry over the disintegration of community and commonwealth, and share the details of the lives they've chosen to live with their wives and children. Contemporary American culture is the landscape they reside on: Environmentalism, sustainability, global politics, and American involvement in literature, poetry, and progressive ideals. These two public intellectuals address issues as broad as are found in any exchange in literature. No one can be unaffected by the complexity of their relationship, the subtlety of their arguments, and the grace of their friendship. This is a book for the ages.
