Corporate E-Learning Luther Tai, 2008 Corporate e learning has become increasingly important in the contemporary universal access business world and can provide strategic and competitive advantages to corporations as a way to accelerate training and reduce the high costs of face to face learning programs However most of the books that are written about e learning do not describe in detail how corporate e learning is actually implemented within a specific company Corporate E Learning fills that gap by describing in depth how e learning programs are developed and instituted and how their effectiveness is measured from the perspective of practicing e learning professionals at IBM an early and liberal user of e learning technologies to train their global workforce Drawing on a wealth of in person interviews of numerous e learning professionals at IBM as well as recent e learning literature Tai discusses how IBM has significantly contributed to the evolution of corporate e learning In the course of doing so he makes useful comparisons with other companies and industries and draws conclusions that are applicable to any company considering utilizing e learning Companies should be careful concludes Tai to use e learning only when it makes strategic and economic sense not simply because the technology is available In addition e learning should always be used along with other more traditional means of learning and carefully monitored by feedback mechanisms to measure whether its objectives have been accomplished and how e learning programs might improve in the future Corporate E Learning is designed for classroom use in technology management courses and will also appeal to corporate professionals who are involved in training human resources development and performance improvement
