Advanced Math for

Economics Peter Lambert, 1985 This book contains a compact accessible treatment of the main mathematical topics encountered in economics at an advanced level moving from basic material into the twin areas of static and dynamic optimization Nearly half of the book is devoted to a survey of univariate calculus matrix algebra and multivariate calculus This fundamental material is made vigorous by the inclusion of a variety of applications The later chapters focus on the Lagrange multiplier technique when it will work why it works and what economic insights it yields The properties of maximum value functions and duality are explored as are the Hamiltonian conditions for dynamic problems in the optimal control format Dynamic programming and the calculus of variations are also covered Much of the discussion proceeds at a heuristic level and by worked example but the theorems and proofs required by the most analytical user are also to be found The underlying message is that the language of mathematics can be productive giving expression to the ideas and facilitating approaches from which insights flow that may be hard to come by in other ways The book will be particularly useful for final year undergraduates doing mathematics for economists courses and postgraduate students

Mathematical Methods In Environmental And Resource Economics Anastasios Xepapadeas, 2022-09-20 The most interesting issues in environmental and resource economics have an explicit temporal dimension since variables of interest such as pollutants greenhouse gases biomass of biological resources or the stocks of fossil fuels accumulate in the ambient environment or are depleted through human actions and natural processes The purpose of these lectures is to present the mathematical tools for analyzing environmental and resource management issues in a dynamic set up The lectures include a brief description of differential equations and then move on to describe methods of optimal control dynamic programming and differential games The final chapters cover two novel topics 1 environmental issues characterized by deep uncertainty and aversion to ambiguity using robust control methods and formulations of precautionary policies and 2 the study of pollution resource management in space and time when the environmental variables evolve in time and diffuse in space The lectures are a valuable tool for advanced graduate students in environmental and resource economics who are studying dynamic problems Advanced Mathematical Methods Adam Ostaszewski, 1990 This text is a self contained second course on mathematical methods dealing with topics in linear algebra and multivariate calculus that can be applied to statistics
