The Human Mind through the Lens of Language Nirmalangshu Mukherji, 2022-06-30 Most living forms in nature display various cognitive abilities in their behaviour However except for humans no other animal builds fires and wheels navigates with maps and tells stories to other conspecifics We can witness this unique feature of the human mind in almost everything humans do such as painting singing and cooking there is an underlying sense of unity in the generative part of these systems despite wide differences in what they are about This book introduces defends and develops a novel philosophical approach to the study of the generative mind Nirmalangshu Mukherji argues for a single species specific generative principle that accounts for the human ability to combine symbolic forms without bound in each domain that falls under the generative mind

Intentionality Deconstructed Amir

Horowitz,2024-04-01 Intentionality Deconstructed argues for the view that no concrete entity mental linguistic or any other can possess intentional content Nothing can be about anything The concept of intentionality is flawed and so content ascriptions cannot be absolutely true or false they lack truth conditions Nonetheless content ascriptions have truth conditions and can be true or possess a related epistemic merit relative to practices of content ascription so that different practices may imply different not real but practice dependent intentional objects for the same token mental state The suggested view does not deny the existence of those mental states standardly considered intentional notably the so called propositional attitudes it affirms it That is support is provided for the existence of those states with the properties usually attributed to them but absent intentional properties Specifically it is argued that the so called propositional attitudes possess logico syntactic properties whose postulation plays an important role in addressing the challenge of reconciling intentional anti realism with beliefs being true or having alternative epistemic merits the argument from the predictive and explanatory success of content ascription for intentional realism and the cognitive suicide objection to views that deny intentionality As part of the rejection of this final objection intentional anti realism is presented as a radical view which claims Nothing can possess intentional content but not that nothing can possess intentional content and it is argued that this is a legitimate characteristic of radical philosophy In spite of rejecting the claim that talk intentional anti realism gives clear sense to its dispute with its rivals as well as to its own superiority Various arguments for intentional anti realism are presented One argument rejects all possible accounts of intentionality namely primitivism intrinsic reductionism the prominent example of which is the phenomenal intentionality thesis and extrinsic reductionism that is reductive naturalistic accounts According to another argument since intentional properties are shown to be dispensable for all possibly relevant purposes and no sound arguments support the claim that they ever are instantiated the application of Ockham s razor shows that no such properties ever are instantiated and another step shows that neither can they be

The Referential Mechanism of Proper Names

Jincai Li,2022-09-30 Each of us bears a unique name given to us at birth When people use your name they typically refer to you But what is the linkage that ties a name to a person and hence allows it to refer Li s book approaches this question of reference empirically through the medium of referential intuitions Building on the literature on philosophical and linguistic intuitions she proposes a linguistic competence based account of referential intuitions Subsequently using a series of novel experiments she investigates the variation of referential intuitions across different cultures as well as the developmental trajectory and the underlying causes of the observed cultural differences What she finds is that the cultural patterns of referential intuitions are already in place around age seven and the differences are largely attributable to the distinct perspective taking strategies favoured by easterners and westerners rather than the moral valence of actions involved in the experimental materials These results are taken to better support referential pluralism in particular the ambiguous view than referential monism By undertaking this fascinating research Li s book provides new insights into the cognitive mechanism underlying people's referential usage of names. It will be valuable to students and scholars of linguistics, philosophy of language and experimental philosophy and in particular to those who research into semantic intuitions and theories of reference. The Compact Compendium of Experimental Philosophy Alexander Max Bauer, Stephan Kornmesser, 2023-11-20
