A Nation Of Farmers Defeating The Food Crisis On American Soil:

A Nation of Farmers Sharon Astyk, Aaron Newton, 2009-05-01 Provides information on ways to solve the food crisis in the United States by creating a local food supply system A Nation Of Farmers Defeating The Food Crisis On American Soil, 2009 Astyk and Newton have written an important book with an unusual message We need millions of new farmers as soon as possible You could not find two more reasonable intelligent sincere and passionate people to talk to about food And the book has very much the feeling of a conversation with someone smart who cares about you It is also intellectually complex creative and nuanced The authors are big thinkers and have taken a good lick at the central human issues of our time Peter Bane This definitive guide can provide inspiration to gardeners and those concerned about the environment It offers practical solutions to all the food related problems brought on by industrialized agriculture and the globalization of food Very carefully researched and well written this documents what is wrong and what we can do about it Connie Krochmal Bellaonline This outstanding and well written compendium of insights and recommendations of fervent idealism and practical solutions is highly recommended Library Journal Once we could fill our grocery carts with cheap and plentiful food but not anymore Cheap food has gone the way of cheap oil Climate change is already reducing crop yields worldwide The cost of flying in food from far away and shipping it across the country in refrigerated trucks is rapidly becoming unviable Cars and cows increasingly devour grain harvests sending prices skyrocketing More Americans than ever before require food stamps and food pantries just to get by and a worldwide food crisis is unfolding overseas and in our kitchens We can keep hunger from stalking our families but doing so will require a fundamental shift in our approach to field and table A Nation of Farmers examines the limits and dangers of the globalized food system and shows how returning to the basics is our best hope The book includes in depth guidelines for Creating resilient local food systems Growing cooking and eating sustainably and naturally Becoming part of the solution to the food crisis The book argues that we need to make self provisioning once the most ordinary of human activities central to our lives The results will be better food better health better security and freedom from corporations that don't have our interests at heart This is critical reading for anyone who eats and cares about high quality food Sharon Astyk farms in New York and is the author of Depletion and Abundance Aaron Newton is a sustainable systems land planner in North Carolina and is the founding editor of Groovy Green The Call of the Land Steven McFadden, 2011 The Call of the Land is a sourcebook exploring positive pathways for food security economic stability environmental repair and cultural renewal This book shows how everyone can respond creatively to the challenges we face From community gardens and locavore restaurants to urban farms and local food banks this book is a survey and synthesis of the great transition that is underway The Local Food Revolution Michael Brownlee, 2016-10-18 Demonstrating that humanity faces an imminent and prolonged global food crisis Michael Brownlee issues a clarion call and manifesto for a revolutionary movement to localize the global food supply He lays out a practical guide for those who hope to navigate the challenging process of shaping the local or regional food system providing a roadmap for embarking on the process of righting the profoundly unsustainable and already failing global industrialized food system Written to inform inspire and empower anyone farmers or ranchers community gardeners aspiring food entrepreneurs supply chain venturers commercial food buyers restaurateurs investors community food activists non profit agencies policy makers or local government leaders who hopes to be a catalyst for change this book provides a blueprint for economic action with specific suggestions that make the process more conscious and deliberate Brownlee cofounder of the nonprofit Local Food Shift Group maps out the underlying process of food localization and outlines the route that communities regions and foodsheds often follow in their efforts to take control of food production and distribution By sharing the strategies that have proven successful he charts a practical path forward while indicating approaches that otherwise might be invisible and unexplored Stories and interviews illustrate how food localization is happening on the ground and in the field Essays and thought pieces explore some of the challenging ethical moral economic and social dilemmas and thresholds that might arise as the local food shift develops For anyone who wants to understand in concrete terms the unique challenges and extraordinary opportunities that present themselves as we address one of the most urgent issues of our time The Local Food Revolution is an indispensable resource

The Broken Promise of Agricultural Progress Cameron Muir,2014-06-05 Food and the global agricultural system has become one of the defining public concerns of the twenty first century Ecological disorder and inequity is at the heart of our food system This thoughtful and confronting book tells the story of how the development of modern agriculture promised ecological and social stability but instead descended into dysfunction Contributing to knowledge in environmental cultural and agricultural histories it explores how people have tried to live in the aftermath of ecological imperialism The Broken Promise of Agricultural Progress An environmental history journeys to the dry inland plains of Australia where European ideas and agricultural technologies clashed with a volatile and taunting country that resisted attempts to subdue and transform it for the supply of global markets Its wide ranging narrative puts gritty local detail in its global context to tell the story of how cultural anxieties about civilisation population and race shaped agriculture in the twentieth century It ranges from isolated experiment farms to nutrition science at the League of Nations from local landholders to high profile moral crusaders including an Australian apricot grower who met Franklin D Roosevelt and almost fed the world This book will be useful to undergraduates and postgraduates on courses examining international comparisons of nineteenth and twentieth century agriculture and courses studying colonial development and settler societies It will also appeal to food concerned general readers

Farmers Are A Dying Breed Dr. Sahadeva Das,2018-01-01 Every 5 years the United States Department of Agriculture sends all the farmers a survey called the Agricultural Census And every five years once all the results are tallied and without fail an alarm bell goes off The national average age in farming keeps climbing up and the trend is ever upward Farmers around the world are getting old Where have all the young farmers gone Why youngsters are leaving the family farms and showing no interest in what is supposed to be the oldest and the noblest profession This is because small scale agriculture is being deliberately stifled Pro corporate policies are making farming non viable and farmers are left with no other choice but to quit Farmers are a dying breed and family farming will become history soon Who Gets to Go Back-to-the-Land? Valerie Padilla Carroll,2022-12 Valerie Padilla Carroll examines texts that promote self sufficiency as the solution to the possible disintegration of modern life The Permaculture Handbook Peter Bane,2012-06-26 A step by step guide to creating resilient and prosperous households introduces permaculture as a practical way to live well with less money convert waste into wealth and reduce dependence on fossil fuels Food and Environment International Conference on Food and Environment,2011 The many advances in food production made over the past century have made it possible to feed the whole of humanity But food production and processing can have detrimental effects on the environment Major challenges remain with industrial scale Higher productivity and larger volumes should not come at the expense of product quality or animal suffering Food related problems in spite of their importance have not been sufficiently well discussed in relation to their possible consequences It is essential to understand the consequences of food production processes and demands of the rising standard of living can have on the food consumed daily by the world population Of particular importance are the effects on human health and the well being of the population as well as the more general issues related to possible damage to the environment and ecology This book includes contributions presented at the first international conference convened to examine these challenges Topics include Food processing issues Contamination of food Pharmaceuticals in food Obesity related issues Pesticides and nutrients Hormonal effects Food and fecundity Genetic engineering Freezing and thawing Heavy metals Pathogens Salination problems Desertification Transportation problems Traceability Threshold values Modern farming Changing climate Laws and regulations Epidemiological studies Water resources problems and Animal welfare The book will be of interest to food scientists and nutritionists as well as agricultural ecological and environmental health experts interested in all these challenges Informal Urban Agriculture Michael Hardman,Peter J. Larkham,2014-10-01 The book explores how unused and under used urban spaces from grass verges roundabouts green spaces have been made more visually interesting and more productive by informal and usually illegal groups known as guerrilla gardeners The book focuses on groups in the English Midlands but the work is set in a broad international context and reveals how and why they undertake this illegal activity Guerrilla gardening is usually viewed uncritically and promoted as a worthwhile activity this study provides a more balanced evaluation and focuses on its contribution in terms of local food production
