Handbook of the American Novel of the Twentieth and Twenty-First Centuries Timo Müller, 2017-01-11 Increasing specialization within the discipline of English and American Studies has shifted the focus of scholarly discussion toward theoretical reflection and cultural contexts These developments have benefitted the discipline in more ways than one but they have also resulted in a certain neglect of close reading As a result students and researchers interested in such material are forced to turn to scholarship from the 1960s and 1970s much of which relies on dated methodological and ideological presuppositions The handbook aims to fill this gap by providing new readings of texts that figure prominently in the literature classroom and in scholarly debate from James's The Ambassadors to McCarthy's The Road These readings do not revert naively to a time before theory Instead they distill the insights of literary and cultural theory into concise introductions to the historical background the themes the formal strategies and the reception of influential literary texts and they do so in a jargon free language accessible to readers on all levels of qualification Encyclopedia of American Literature Manly, Inc., 2013-06 Susan Clair Imbarrato Carol Berkin Brett Barney Lisa Paddock Matthew J Brucoli George Parker Anderson Judith S The

Nationhood and Improvised Belief in American Fiction Ann Genzale, 2021-01-15 Nationhood and Improvised Belief in American Fiction highlights the ways religious belief and practice intersect with questions of national belonging in the work of major contemporary writers Through readings of novels by Louise Erdrich Toni Morrison Cristina Garcia and others this book argues that the representations of syncretic culturally hybrid and improvised forms of religious practice operate in these novels as critiques of exclusionary constructions of national identity providing models for alternate ways of belonging based on shared religious beliefs and practices Rather than treating the religious history of the U S as one of increasing secularization this book instead calls for greater attention to the diversity of religious experience in the U S as well as a deeper understanding of the ways in which these experiences can inform relationships to the national community

Furlan, 2017-11-01 A critical study of contemporary American Indian narratives set in urban spaces that reveals how these texts respond to diaspora dislocation citizenship and reclamation Contemporary Historical Fiction, Exceptionalism and Community Susan Strehle, 2020-10-19 This book analyzes a significant group of contemporary historical fictions that represent damaging even catastrophic times for people and communities written after the wreck they recall instructive pasts The novels chronicle wars slavery racism child abuse and genocide they reveal damages that ensue when nations claim an exalted exceptionalist identity and violate the human rights of their Others In sympathy with the exiled writers of these contemporary historical fictions create alternative communities on the state's outer fringes These fictive communities include where the state excludes they foreground relations of debt and obligation to the group in place of individualism competition and private property Rather than assimilating members to a single identity with a unified set of views the communities open multiple possibilities for belonging Analyzing novels from Britain Australia and the U S along with additional transnational examples Susan Strehle explores the political vision animating some contemporary historical fictions
