Bookrolls And Scribes In Oxyrhynchus Bookrolls And Scribes In Oxyrhynchus:

Bookrolls and Scribes in Oxyrhynchus William Allen Johnson, 2004-01-01 Close analysis of formal and conventional features of the bookrolls not only provides detailed information on the bookroll industry but also in turn suggests some intriguing questions and provisional answers about the ways in which the use and function of the bookroll among ancient readers may differ from modern or medieval practice

Tatian's Diatessaron James W. Barker, 2021-10-28 In the late second century Tatian the Assyrian constructed a new Gospel by intricately harmonizing Matthew Mark Luke and John Tatian's work became known as the Diatessaron since it was derived out of the four eventually canonical Gospels Though it circulated widely for centuries the Diatessaron disappeared in antiquity Nevertheless numerous ancient and medieval harmonies survive in various languages Some texts are altogether independent of the Diatessaron while others are definitely related Yet even Tatian's known descendants differ in large and small ways so attempts at reconstruction have proven confounding In this book James W Barker forges a new path in Diatessaron studies Covering the widest array of manuscript evidence to date Tatian's Diatessaron reconstructs the compositional and editorial practices by which Tatian wrote his Gospel By sorting every extant witness according to its narrative sequence the macrostructure of Tatian's Gospel becomes clear Despite many shared agreements there remain significant divergences between eastern and western witnesses This book argues that the eastern ones preserve Tatian's order whereas the western texts descend from a fourth century recension of the Diatessaron Victor of Capua and his scribe used the recension to produce the Latin Codex Fuldensis in the sixth century More controversially Barker offers new evidence that late medieval texts such as the Middle Dutch Stuttgart harmony independently preserve traces of the western recension This study uncovers the composition and reception history behind one of early Christianity's most elusive texts

'Noncanonical' Religious Texts in Early Judaism and Early Christianity Lee Martin McDonald, James H. Charlesworth, 2012-04-05 Discusses ancient religious texts especially the so called non canonical texts by focusing on how they were used or functioned in Early Judaism and Early Christianity

Pesher and Hypomnema: A Comparison of Two Commentary Traditions from the Hellenistic-Roman Period

Pieter B. Hartog, 2017-11-06 In Pesher and Hypomnema Pieter B Hartog compares ancient Jewish commentaries on the Hebrew Bible with papyrus commentaries on the Iliad Hartog shows that members of the Qumran movement adopted classical commentary writing and adapted it to their own needs

Readers and Reading Culture in the High Roman Empire William A. Johnson, 2010-06-03 In Readers and Reading Culture in the High Roman Empire William Johnson examines the system and culture of reading among the elite in second century Rome The investigation proceeds in case study fashion using the principal surviving witnesses beginning with the communities of Pliny and Tacitus with a look at Pliny's teacher Quintilian from the time of the emperor Trajan Johnson then moves on to explore elite reading during the era of the Antonines including the medical community around Galen the philological community around Gellius and Fronto with a look at the curious reading habits of Fronto's pupil Marcus Aurelius and the intellectual communities lampooned by the satirist Lucian. Along the way evidence from the papyri is deployed to help to understand better and more concretely both the mechanics of reading and the social interactions that surrounded the ancient book. The result is a rich cultural history of individual reading communities that differentiate themselves in interesting ways even while in aggregate showing a coherent reading culture with fascinating similarities and contrasts to the reading culture of today. Texts and Artefacts Larry W. Hurtado, 2017-11-30. The essays included in this volume present Larry W. Hurtado's steadfast analysis of the earliest Christian manuscripts. In these chapters Hurtado considers not only standard text critical issues which seek to uncover an earliest possible version of a text but also the very manuscripts that are available to us. As one of the pre-eminent scholars of the field Hurtado examines often overlooked 2nd and 3rd century artefacts which are among the earliest manuscripts available, drawing fascinating conclusions about the features of early Christianity. Divided into two halves, the first part of the volume addresses text critical and text historical issues about the textual transmission of various New Testament writings. The second part looks at manuscripts as physical and visual artefacts themselves, exploring the metadata and sociology of their context and the nature of their first readers for the light cast upon early Christianity. Whilst these essays are presented together here as a republished collection, Hurtado has made several updates across the collection to draw them together and to reflect on the developing nature of the issues that they address since they were first written. Case Studies Giulio Colesanti, Laura Lulli, 2016-03-07. The book is the second volume of a series of studies dealing with the Submerged literature in ancient Greek culture's vol. 1. G. Colesanti, M. Giordano eds. Submerged Literature in Ancient Greek Culture: An Introduction. Berlin/Boston: de Gruyter, 2014. It is a peculiar starting point of the research in the field of Greek culture since it casts a light on many case studies so far not yet analyzed as literary products subjected to the process of submersion: e.g. oracles, philosophy, phylax, play, epigrams, Aesopic fables, periplus, sacred texts, mysteries, medical treatises, dance, music. Therefore, the book investigates the complex and manifold dynamics of emergence and submersion in ancient Greek literary culture, dealing especially with matters as the interaction between orality and literacy, the authorship, the cultural transmission, the folklore. Moreover, the book offers the reader new stimulating approaches in order to reconstruct the wide frame which contained the overall cultural processes, including the literary products subjected to the submersion, in a chronological span going from Greek archaic age to the Imperial age. The Christian Liturgical Papyri: An Introduction Ágnes T. Mihálykó, 2019-06-18. Liturgical papyri are prime witnesses to the history of liturgy and the religious and theological currents in late antique Egypt. These items from the third to ninth century preserve hundreds of Greek and Coptic hymns, prayers, and acclamations, most otherwise unknown but some still recited by the Coptic Church. Agnes T. Mihálykó offers the first extensive introduction to the liturgical papyri, facilitating the reader's access to them with a detailed inventory of edited manuscripts and an extensive discussion of their date and provenance. She also examines liturgical papyri as the first preserved liturgical manuscripts describing their material features the ways they were used the early history of the liturgical books and their languages She reveals how liturgical texts were written down and transmitted and locates these important manuscripts in the book culture of late antique Egypt The Zondervan Encyclopedia of the Bible, Volume 4 Merrill C.

Evans,H. Daniel Zacharias,2011-10-27 Jewish and Christian Scripture as Artifact and Canon constitutes a collection of studies that reflect and contribute to the growing scholarly interest in manuscripts as artifacts and witnesses to early stages in Jewish and Christian understanding of sacred scripture Scholars and textual critics have in recent years rightly recognized the contribution that ancient manuscripts make to our understanding of the development of canon in its broadest and most inclusive sense The studies included in this volume shed significant light on the most important questions touching the emergence of canon consciousness and written communication in the early centuries of the Christian church The concern here is not in recovering a theoretical original text or early recognized canon but in analysis of and appreciation for texts as they actually circulated and were preserved through time Some of the essays in this collection explore the interface between canon as theological concept on the one hand and canon as reflected in the physical artifactual evidence on the other Other essays explore what the artifacts tell us about life and belief in early communities of faith Still other studies investigate the visual dimension and artistic expressions of faith including theology and biblical interpretation communicated through the medium of art and icon in manuscripts The volume also includes scientific studies concerned with the physical properties of particular manuscripts These studies will stimulate new discussion in this important area of research and will point students and scholars in new directions for future work
