

The background of the slide is a close-up photograph of various mechanical components scattered on a rustic, dark-stained wooden surface. In the upper left, a portion of a grey, flexible automotive air hose is visible. Below it, a silver-colored open-end wrench lies horizontally. The lower half of the image is filled with an assortment of metal parts: a large, dark, circular gear or flywheel on the left; a silver-colored piston with its rings in the center; several smaller gears of different sizes and shapes; a metal bearing or pulley; and various bolts and nuts. The lighting is soft, highlighting the textures of the wood and the metallic surfaces of the parts.
