The Development of the Human Eye Ida Mann, Bryn Mawr College Monographs, 1905 Studies from the Department of Anatomy Cornell University. Medical College, New York. Dept. of Anatomy, 1910 Mostly reprints from various medical journals Atlas of the Slitlamp-Microscopy of the Living Eye Alfred Vogt, Robert von der Heydt, 1921 The introduction of the slitlamp of Gullstrand has opened to ophthalmology an entirely new field for clinical observation and diagnosis It has created what may be termed an Histology of the living eye Normal and pathologic conditions heretofore established only anatomically can be directly observed in the living eye It shows us not only structures that are known but in addition a series of observations on histological details heretofore impossible These structures owing partly to their delicacy were formerly sacrificed in the process of fixation or it was impossible to further differentiate them by any method of staining For instance we have up to the present failed of anatomical proof of the numerous physiologic remnants of the tunica vasculosa lentis the arteria hyaloidea the various intricacies of the framework supporting the vitreous body types of lens sclerosis etc but the number of facts already known as a result of anatomical research which have hitherto evaded clinical confirmation is far greater The slitlamp in combination with the corneal microscope permits us to observe the living endothelium on the posterior surface of the cornea Every individual endothelial cell on Descemet's membrane as well as each pathologically deposited lymphocyte is revealed The nerve fibres of the cornea can be traced to their very finest ramifications In Descemet's and Bowman's membranes we have observed pathological folds manifested by their characteristic reflexes Zeitschrift für wissenschaftliche Zoologie Karl Theodor Ernst von Seibold, Carl Th. Publications of Cornell University Medical College Cornell University. Medical College. Department of Anatomy, 1912 Mostly reprints from various medical journals Pathology of the Eye G.O.H. Naumann, D.J. Apple, 2012-12-06 It is indeed a pleasure to write a foreword for this spectacular book which represents a landmark in the history of ocular pathology Not since the three volumes of the Henke Lubarsch handbook appeared forty years ago has anything like this come on the market This book represents a comprehensive thorough and up to date clinically oriented textbook on ocular pathology We are all indebted to the senior author who is now professor of ophthalmology at the University of Erlangen who presents us here with the fruit of decades of industrious endeavors We also have to be grateful to the American ophthalmic pathologist Dr David Apple who as one of the main collaborators of the German edition has now provided us with the English translation The book has a twofold purpose First it is meant to be a source of instruction for ophthalmologists and pathologists For that purpose it is beautifully illustrated both by clinical pictures and by excellent photomicrographs and electromicroscopic pictures Most valuable from a didactic point of view are the colored schematic drawings and the many tables These two features are practically unique and should help any neophyte in grasping the principles of ocular pathology *Lehrbuch der vergleichenden mikroskopischen Anatomie der Wirbeltiere, in Verbindung mit dr.
