Recent Advances in $\gamma\delta$ T Cell Biology: New Ligands, New Functions, and New Translational Perspectives Dieter

Kabelitz, Julie Dechanet-Merville, 2016-02-16 Gamma delta T cells are a small subset of T lymphocytes in the peripheral circulation but constitute a major T cell population at other anatomical localizations such as the epithelial tissues In contrast to conventional T cells the available number of germline genes coding for T cell receptor TCR variable elements of T cells is very small Moreover there is a preferential localization of T cells expressing given Vgamma and Vdelta genes in certain tissues In humans T cells expressing the Vg9Vd2 encoded TCR account for anywhere between 50 and 95% of peripheral blood T cells whereas cells expressing non Vd2 genes dominate in mucosal tissues In mice there is an ordered appearance of T cell waves during embryonic development resulting in preferential localization of T cells expressing distinct VgammaVdelta genes in the skin the reproductive organs or gut epithelia The major function of T cells resides in local immunosurveillance and immune defense against infection and malignancy This is supported by the identification of ligands that are selectively recognized by the TCR As an example human Vgamma9Vdelta2 T cells recognize phosphorylated metabolites phosphoantigens that are secreted by many pathogens but can also be overproduced by tumor cells providing a basis for a role of these T cells in both anti infective and anti tumor immunity Similarly the recognition of endothelial protein C receptor by human non Vdelta2 T cells has recently been identified to provide a link for the role for such T cells in immunity against epithelial tumor cells and cytomegalovirus infected endothelial cells In addition to classical functions such as cytokine production and cytotoxicity recent studies suggest that subsets of T cells can exert additional functions such as regulatory activity and quite surprisingly professional antigen presenting capacity It is currently not well known how this tremendous extent of functional plasticity is regulated and what is the extent of TCR ligand diversity Due to their non MHC restricted recognition of unusual stress associated ligands T cells have raised great interest as to their potential translational application in cell based immunotherapy Topics of this Research Focus include Molecular insights into the activation and differentiation requirements of T cells role of pyrophosphates and butyrophilin molecules for the activation of human T cells role of T cells in tumor immunity and in other infectious and non infectious diseases and many others We are most grateful to all colleagues who agreed to write a manuscript Thanks to their contributions this E book presents an up to date overview on many facets of the still exciting T cells Dieter Kabelitz Julie D chanet Merville Feedback Loops Andrew Wells Garnar, Ashley

Shew, 2020-11-03 In a world of information technologies genetic engineering controversies about established science and the mysteries of quantum physics it is at once seemingly impossible and absolutely vital to find ways to make sense of how science technology and society connect In Feedback Loops Pragmatism about Science Technology editors Andrew Wells Garnar and Ashley Shew bring together original writing from philosophers and science and technology studies scholars to provide novel ways of rethinking the relationships among science technology education and society Through critiquing and exploring the work of philosopher of science and technology Joseph C Pitt the authors featured in this volume investigate the complexities of contemporary technoscience writing on topics ranging from super computing to pedagogy engineering to biotechnology patents and scientific instruments to disability studies Taken together these chapters develop an argument about the necessity of using pragmatism to foster a more productive relationship among science technology and society A Silent Fire Shilpa Ravella,2022-10-11 Fascinating Ravella s writing breathes life into biological functions Grace Wade New Scientist A riveting investigation of inflammation the hidden force at the heart of modern disease and how we can prevent treat or even reverse it Inflammation is the body s ancestral response to its greatest threats the first line of defense it deploys against injury and foreign pathogens But as the threats we face have evolved new science is uncovering how inflammation may also turn against us simmering underneath the surface of leading killers from heart disease and cancer to depression aging and mysterious autoimmune conditions In A Silent Fire gastroenterologist Shilpa Ravella investigates hidden inflammation s emerging role as a common root of modern disease and how we can control it We meet the visionary nineteenth century pathologist who laid the foundation for our modern understanding of inflammation the eccentric Russian zoologist who discovered one of the cells central to our immune system and the dedicated researchers advancing the frontiers of medical and nutritional science today With fascinating case studies Ravella reveals how we can reform our relationships with food and our microbiomes to benefit our own health and the planet s Synthesizing medical history cutting edge research and innovative clinical practice Ravella unveils inflammation as one potential basis for a unifying theory of disease A paradigm shifting understanding of one of the most mysterious buzzed about topics in medicine and nutrition A Silent Fire shows us how to live not only long but well Legal Protection for Computer-Implemented Inventions

Montana's Pioneer Naturalist George M. Dennison, 2016-09-21 A naturalist on Montana's academic frontier passionate conservationist Morton J Elrod was instrumental in establishing the Department of Biology at the University of Montana as well as Glacier National Park and the National Bison Range In Montana's Pioneer Naturalist the first in depth assessment of Elrod's career George M Dennison reveals how one man helped to shape the scholarly study of nature and its institutionalization in the West at the turn of the century Elrod moved to Missoula in 1897 just four years after the state university's founding and participated in virtually every aspect of university life for almost forty years To reveal the depths of this pioneer scientist's influence on the growth of his university his state and the academic fields he worked in author George M Dennison delves into state and university archives including Elrod's personal papers Although Elrod was an active participant in bison conservation and the growth of the National Park Naturalist Service much of his work focused on Flathead Lake where he surveyed local life forms and initiated the university's biological station one of the first of its kind in the United States Yet at heart Elrod was an educator who desired to foster in his students a love of nature which he said should give health to any one and supply knowledge of greatest value either to the individual or to society or to both In this biography of a prominent scientist now almost forgotten Dennison longtime president of the University of Montana demonstrates how Elrod's scholarship and philosophy regarding science and nature made him one of Montana's most distinguished naturalists conservationists and educators
