Sample Book Insights

- 1 The sight of a yellow school bus is familiar and comforting. However, over 25 million children ride the school bus every day in our country. The dark side of that stat is that nearly 40 percent of all attempted child kidnappings take place when a child is walking or riding a bike to or from school or walking to or from the school bus.
- 2 The case of the missing Boy Scout Beaufort and the second boy Shawn Hornbeck, who had been held captive for four years, was solved when police found a white truck with a camper top and a driver named Michael Devlin.
- 3 In 2017, Alianna, a 14-year-old girl with a developmental disability, was murdered by a man who had followed her from her bus stop and forced her into an abandoned house. The school's negligence ensured that the last hours of her life were excruciating and debilitating physical and mental pain.
- 4 On June 10, 1991, eleven-year-old Jaycee Dugard was kidnapped by sex offender Phillip Garrido, who kept her captive for the next eighteen years. She was eventually found and returned to her mother.

When Caregivers Kill Betty L. Alt,Sandra K. Wells,2010-04-16 From mothers who kill their children in postpartum fugues to fathers who murder their kids for revenge against an estranged wife the stories in this book are chilling yet real and bring home the message that children are vulnerable to violence even in the care of those who should love and protect them the most Sadly child murder by parents and caregivers happens more frequently than one might guess and while each case is different there are often warning signs that something might be amiss Signs of physical abuse may precede the ultimate act of murder A mother s mental state after the birth of a child may signal true distress and the potential for extreme actions No one can predict with certainty when a parent or other caregiver may snap but here Alt and Wells examine many cases of child murder to find out what they have in common how we might prevent such violence and what more we can do to protect children in potentially explosive situations
