Baghdad The City In Verse:

Baghdad, 2013-11-18 Baghdad The City in Verse captures the essence of life lived in one of the world's great enduring metropolises. In this unusual anthology, Reuven Snir offers original translations of more than 170 Arabic poems, most of them appearing for the first time in English, which represent a cross section of genres and styles from the time of Baghdad's founding in the eighth century to the present day. The diversity of the fabled city is reflected in the Bedouin, Muslim, Christian, Kurdish, and Jewish poets featured here, including writers of great renown and others whose work has survived but whose names are lost to history. Through the prism of these poems, readers glimpse many different Baghdads: the city built on ancient Sumerian ruins, the epicenter of Arab culture and Islam's Golden Age under the enlightened rule of Harun al Rashid, the bombed-out capital of Saddam Hussein's fallen regime, the American occupation, and life in a new but unstable Iraq. With poets as our guides, we visit bazaars, gardens, wine parties, love scenes, worldly and mystical brothels, prisons, and palaces. Startling contrasts emerge as the day-to-day cacophony of urban life is juxtaposed with eternal cycles of the Tigris and hellish winds; mosquitoes, rain, floods, snow, and earthquakes are accompanied by somber reflections on invasions and other catastrophes. Documenting the city's 1,250-year history, Baghdad The City in Verse shows why poetry has been aptly called the public register of the Arabs.

The Prose Works of Gha'ib Tu'ma Farman, Hilla Peled-Shapira, 2018-09-15 Peled Shapira explores the connections between politics, society, and literary expression in the works of the Iraqi writer Gha'ib Tu'ma Farman (1927-1990). As the first Iraqi to have composed a modern novel, a perusal of Farman's oeuvre reveals the artistic techniques through which he depicts the complex relationship between the Leftist intelligentsia and the Iraqi regime in the middle of the twentieth century, a period that for the former meant persecution and exile. Peled Shapira examines Farman's involvement with Communism and the way he documents the Leftist intellectuals' agenda through literature. At the same time, she offers a new, detailed reading of his virtuoso use of the Arabic language. This book presents an in-depth study of the unique metaphors and the image of Baghdad, which play a prominent role in Farman's works and hence paves the way to a better understanding of how this prolific writer coped with the predatory regime and his own inner world. The insights on the theme of exile in the book can also be applied on the lives of other intellectuals in the period in question, in and outside Iraq alike.

Hikayat Abi al-Qasim Selove Emily Selove, 2016-02-12 Hikayat Abu al-Qasim probably written in the 11th century by the otherwise unknown al-Azdi tells the story of a gate crasher from Baghdad named Abu al-Qasim who shows up uninvited at a party in Isfahan Dressed as a holy man and reciting religious poetry he soon relaxes his demeanour and growing intoxicated on wine insults the other dinner guests and their Iranian hometown Widely hailed as a narrative unique in the history of Arabic literature a ikāyah also reflects a much larger tradition of banquet texts Painting a picture of a party crasher who is at once a holy man and a rogue

he is a figure familiar to those who have studied the ancient cynic tradition or other portrayals of wise fools tricksters and saints in literatures from the Mediterranean and beyond This study therefore compares a ikA yah a mysterious text surviving in a single manuscript to other comical banquet texts and party crashing characters both from contemporary Arabic literature and from Ancient Greece and Rome
