Nonmonotonic Reasoning Grigoris Antoniou, Mary-Anne Williams, 1997 Nonmonotonic reasoning provides formal methods that enable intelligent systems to operate adequately when faced with incomplete or changing information In particular it provides rigorous mechanisms for taking back conclusions that in the presence of new information turn out to be wrong and for deriving new alternative conclusions instead Nonmonotonic reasoning methods provide rigor similar to that of classical reasoning they form a base for validation and verification and therefore increase confidence in intelligent systems that work with incomplete and changing information Following a brief introduction to the concepts of predicate logic that are needed in the subsequent chapters this book presents an in depth treatment of default logic Other subjects covered include the major approaches of autoepistemic logic and circumscription belief revision and its relationship to nonmonotonic inference and briefly the stable and well founded semantics of logic programs

Reducing Planning Problems by Path Reduction Ulrich Scholz, 2004 Planning is among the characteristic features of intelligence and therefore it is a central research topic of Intellectics since its beginning Although planning is a very hard task recent planning systems have achieved an astonishing performance and are applied in various fields One reason for the success of these systems lies among others in the exploitation of structural properties that are present in many but not all problems The use of such structural properties therefore leads to a specialization on a class of problems Their exploitation is often conducted by a preprocessing step i e by the application of a special algorithm prior to the search for a plan This work identifies and examines the class of c invariants as such a structural property of planning problems c Invariants are state invariants and are present in many problems of practical interest Building on the features of c invariants the dissertation presents path reduction a preprocessing technique that can significantly simplify planning problems Finally the work describes an implementation of path reduction and examines its application

this is One of the central messages of the book is that close analysis of archaeological best practice can yield constructive guidelines for practice that have much to offer archaeologists and those in related fields
