Biosecurity Interventions Andrew Lakoff, Stephen J. Collier, 2008 The product of collaboration between anthropologists geographers sociologists and even a chemist this volume delves into the design and implementation of global bio security interventions Pathological Lives Steve Hinchliffe, Nick Bingham, John Allen, Simon Carter, 2016-12-27 Pandemics epidemics and food borne diseases are a major global challenge Focusing on the food and farming sector and mobilising social theory as well as empirical enquiry Pathological Lives investigates current approaches to biosecurity and ask how pathological lives can be successfully regulated without making life more dangerous as a result Uses empirical and social theoretical resources developed in the course of a 40 month research project entitled Biosecurity borderlands Focuses on the food and farming sector where the generation and subsequent transmission of disease has the ability to reach pandemic proportions Demonstrates the importance of a geographical and spatial analysis drawing together social material and biological approaches as well as national and international examples The book makes three main conceptual contributions reconceptualising disease as situated matters the spatial or topological analysis of situations and a reformulation of biopolitics Uniquely brings together conceptual development with empirically and politically informed work on infectious and zoonotic disease to produce a timely and important contribution to both social science and to policy debate Governing Disasters S. Revet, J. Langumier, 2015-03-04 Based on extensive ethnographic and historical research conducted in diverse field locations this volume offers an acute analysis of how actors at local national and international levels govern disasters it examines the political issues at stake that often go unaddressed and demonstrates that victims of disaster do not remain passive Companion to Environmental Studies Noel Castree, Mike Hulme, James D. Proctor, 2018-05-01 Companion to Environmental Studies presents a comprehensive and interdisciplinary overview of the key issues debates concepts approaches and questions that together define environmental studies today The intellectually wide ranging volume covers approaches in environmental science all the way through to humanistic and post natural perspectives on the biophysical world Though many academic disciplines have incorporated studying the environment as part of their curriculum only in recent years has it become central to the social sciences and humanities rather than mainly the geosciences The environment is now a keyword in everything from fisheries science to international relations to philosophical ethics to cultural studies The Companion brings these subject areas and their distinctive perspectives and contributions together in one accessible volume Over 150 short chapters written by leading international experts provide concise authoritative and easy to use summaries of all the major and emerging topics dominating the field while the seven part introductions situate and provide context for section entries A gateway to deeper understanding is provided via further reading and links to online resources Companion to Environmental Studies offers an essential one stop reference to university students academics policy makers and others keenly interested in the environmental question the answer to which will define the coming century International

Routledge Handbook of Global Health Security Simon Rushton, Jeremy Youde, 2014-08-07 This new Handbook presents an overview of cutting edge research in the growing field of global health security. Over the past decade the study of global health and its interconnection with security has become a prominent and rapidly growing field of research. Ongoing debates question whether health and security should be linked, which if any health issues should be treated as security threats, what should be done to address health security threats and the positive and negative consequences of securitizing health. In academic and policy terms the health security field is a timely and dynamic one and this handbook will be the first work comprehensively to address this agenda. Bringing together the leading experts and commentators on health security issues from across the world, the volume comprises original and cutting edge essays addressing the key issues in the field and also highlighting currently neglected avenues for future research. The book intends to provide an accessible yet sophisticated introduction to the key topics and debates and is organised into four key parts: Health Securities, the fundamental conceptual issues; historical links between health and security and the various ways of conceptualising health as a security issue; Threats, those health issues which have been most frequently discussed in security terms; Responses, the wide range of contemporary security driven responses to health threats; Controversies, the securitization of health, its impact on rights and justice and the potential distortion of the global health agenda. This book will be of great interest to students of global health security, public health, critical security studies and International Relations in general.

Introducing Human Geographies Paul Cloke, Philip Crang, Mark

Goodwin, 2013-12-05 Introducing Human Geographies is the leading guide to human geography for undergraduate students explaining new thinking on essential topics and discussing exciting developments in the field. This new edition has been thoroughly revised and updated and coverage is extended with new sections devoted to biogeographies, cartographies, mobilities, non-representational geographies, population geographies, public geographies and securities. Presented in three parts with 60 contributions written by expert international researchers, this text addresses the central ideas through which human geographers understand and shape their subject. Part I Foundations engages students with key ideas that define human geography's subject matter and approaches through critical analyses of dualisms such as local/global, society/space and human/nonhuman. Part II Themes explores human geography's main sub-disciplines with sections devoted to biogeographies, cartographies, cultural geographies, development geographies, economic geographies, environmental geographies, historical geographies, political geographies, population geographies, social geographies, urban and rural geographies. Finally, Part III Horizons assesses the latest research in innovative areas from mobilities and securities to non-representational geographies. This comprehensive, stimulating and cutting-edge introduction to the field is richly illustrated throughout with full-colour figures, maps and photos. These are available to download on the companion website located at www.routledge.com/9781444135350.

Avian Reservoirs Frédéric Keck, 2020-01-17 After experiencing the SARS outbreak in 2003, Hong Kong, Singapore and Taiwan all invested in various techniques to mitigate future pandemics involving myriad cross-species interactions between humans and birds. In some locations, microbiologists allied with veterinarians and birdwatchers to follow the mutations of flu viruses in birds and humans and create preparedness strategies, while in others public health officials worked toward preventing pandemics by killing thousands of birds. In Avian Reservoirs, Frédéric Keck offers a comparative analysis of these responses, tracing how the anticipation of bird flu pandemics has changed relations between birds and humans in China. Drawing on anthropological theory and ethnographic fieldwork, Keck demonstrates that varied strategies dealing with the threat of pandemics—stockpiling vaccines and samples in Taiwan, simulating pandemics in Singapore, and monitoring viruses and disease vectors in Hong Kong—reflect local geopolitical relations to mainland China. In outlining how interactions among pathogens, birds and humans shape the way people imagine future pandemics, Keck illuminates how interspecies relations are crucial for protecting against such threats.

Rethinking Post-Disaster Recovery Laura Centemeri, Sezin Topçu, J. Peter Burgess, 2021-11-18 This book presents an original interdisciplinary approach to the study of the so-called recovery phase in disaster management, centred on the notion of repairing. The volume advances thinking on disaster recovery that goes beyond institutional and managerial challenges, descriptions and analyses. It encourages socially, politically and ethically engaged questioning of what it means to recover after disaster. At the centre of this analysis, contributions examine the diversity of processes of repairing through which recovery can take place and the varied meanings actors attribute to repair at different times and scales of such processes. It also analyses the multiple arenas juridical expert political in which actors struggle to make sense of the what ness of a disaster and the paths for recovery These struggles are interlinked with interest based and power based struggles which maintain structural inequality and exploitation existing social hierarchies and established forms of marginality The work uses case studies from all over the world cutting edge theoretical discussions and original empirical research to put critical and interpretative approaches in social sciences into dialogue opening the venue for innovative approaches in the study of environmental disasters This book will be of much interest to students of disaster management sociology anthropology law and philosophy
