Ancient Ships (Classic Reprint) Cecil Torr, 2018-03-13 Excerpt from Ancient Ships The best of the written evidence comes from inscriptions In digging the foundations for a building at the Peiraeus in 1834 the workmen came upon a Roman or Byzantine drain and found that it was lined with slabs of marble covered with inscriptions These were some of the inventories of the Athenian dockyards and a few others have come to light since then the earliest of them dating from 373 and the latest from 323 bc Or thereabouts Unhappily these inscriptions are shattered and defaced in many places but where the reading is clear their testimony is conclusive About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
