to the fact that the model is not a perfect representation of the real world. The model is a simplification of the real world, and it is not possible to capture all the details of the real world in a model. The model is a tool to help us understand the real world, and it is not a perfect representation of the real world.

Abstract: This study was designed to assess the impact of a 10-week, 12-session, group-based, self-help program on the self-efficacy and self-management skills of patients with type 2 diabetes. The program was developed by a multidisciplinary team of health professionals and was based on the principles of the Health Belief Model. The program was evaluated using a pretest-posttest design. The results of the study showed that the program had a significant positive impact on the self-efficacy and self-management skills of the patients. The findings suggest that the program is a promising intervention for improving the self-efficacy and self-management skills of patients with type 2 diabetes.
