BIOMES

Take a closer look at the images above. Each is home to a variety of plants and animals, but no two are the same. Although they're all capable to life, there are quite a lot of differences too. Many of these differences are abiotic, or have to do with the non-living parts of the environment. Abiotic factors include temperature, the amount of oxygen in the air or water, and the kind of soil present.

infer, or make your best guess, about some of the abiotic factors in each of the images.

Location	Temperature	Amount of rainfall
C

Specifying these locations are all home to many trees, or living, factors as well. What kinds of species do you think live in each of these places? Feel free to list plants, animals, birds, fish, insects, and even microscopic life like bacteria!

Chaparral

Tundra

Lastly, the chapparral biome is a coastal biome with hot, dry summers and mild winters. It has mostly shrubs with a few short trees. Deer, birds, and rabbits live in the chapparral.

Tundra When we think of deserts, we usually think of a hot and dry place, but did you know that deserts can be cold too? The Tundra in Alaska is the largest cold desert, but there is so much snow (and) that it's still considered a desert. Both plants and animals must adapt to dry life in the desert. Many develop unique ways of surviving such as water storage.

extremely nutrient rich soil. Here you'll find a variety of plants and animals. Due to their dry and hot climate, plants in both savanna and grasslands are adapted to survive relatively common fires.

Desert When we think of deserts, we usually think of a hot and dry place, but did you know that deserts can be cold too? The Desert in Alaska is the largest cold desert, but there is so much snow (and) that it's still considered a desert. Both plants and animals must adapt to dry life in the desert. Many develop unique ways of surviving such as water storage or the ability to remain dormant (similar to hibernation) for a long time.

Forest There are several different kinds of forest biomes, including: The rainforest is most likely the most famous forest. This lush biome is home to a vast number of plants and animals. The temperate forest is home to a variety of trees and animals. The coniferous forest is home to a variety of trees and animals.

The temperate forest is common in the US, Canada, Europe, and Asia. Here you'll find a variety of plants and animals. The coniferous forest is common in the US, Canada, Europe, and Asia. Here you'll find a variety of plants and animals. The deciduous forest is common in the US, Canada, Europe, and Asia. Here you'll find a variety of plants and animals.

BIOMES

Earth is an amazing planet. It has many different environments that make perfect homes for millions of species. The largest major habitats that exist worldwide are known as biomes. Most likely, you're familiar with many of these: desert, rainforest, grassland, etc. Each biome is unique and has its own set of characteristics that make it different from the others. One of the most important factors in determining a biome is the amount of water and the amount of sunlight it receives.

How many biomes are there? Do all water environments constitute a single aquatic biome? Are all fire-filled ecosystems considered a forest biome? The number of biomes you could find simply depends on how specific you'd like to be. Let's take a look at some of the largest biomes, and the abiotic and biotic factors that define them.

Marine

Freshwater

Savanna

For fish, birds, frogs, whales, and other aquatic species. The marine biome is the largest of all. It's home to a vast number of plants and animals. The freshwater biome is the second largest. It's home to a variety of plants and animals. The savanna biome is the third largest. It's home to a variety of plants and animals.

Aquatic Biomes Since water covers over 70% of the Earth, the largest biomes are the aquatic biomes. Marine biomes include coral reefs and estuaries, but the two major ones are the marine and freshwater biomes. The marine biome, made up of the world's oceans, is so big it's hard to imagine. It's home to a vast number of plants and animals. The freshwater biome is the second largest. It's home to a variety of plants and animals.

Grassland Grassland biomes live up to their name! They're made up of open and very few trees. The two major grassland biomes are the savanna and temperate grassland. The savanna is a type of grassland that covers a large part of Africa and large parts of Australia. These areas have a 6-8 month wet season in the summer and a 4-6 month dry season in the winter. The temperate grasslands, on the other hand, make up the plains of middle America.

BIOMES

Answer the following questions using the world map.

2. Is weather a biotic factor or an abiotic factor? How do you know?

could find in a marine ecosystem. The marine biome is the largest of all. It's home to a vast number of plants and animals. The freshwater biome is the second largest. It's home to a variety of plants and animals.

Adapt (or change) to survive. For example, polar bears have adapted to survive in their cold environment. What animals need to survive in the desert?
