STEREO SOUND
This enables the greatest amount of stereo in the program material. It should be set up for the complete stereo channel in mono, feeding back to the stereo input. The stereo is then expanded and sufficient processing necessary for proper stereo presentation.

TREBLE
Sets the upper frequency of the high pass filter between 1000 and 10,000 Hz and may be set to 10,000 Hz. It does not affect the response for frequencies below 10,000 Hz. It is most effective when the signal is set to the program material (e.g., voice) and is set to the maximum frequency of the signal.

COMPRESSION
Controls the dynamic range of the signal and may be set to any compression ratio. It should be set to 10:1 for the complete stereo channel in mono, feeding back to the stereo input. The stereo is then expanded and sufficient processing necessary for proper stereo presentation.

The Apdex Aural Exciter has become a standard in the music industry and has been used for years on thousands of albums, records, broadcast productions, commercials and concerts. The Aural Exciter is now recognized as a unique method to enhance clarity, definition and dynamic range of sound. The program material is "stereoized", producing more detail and intelligibility, as well as greater apparent frequency and dynamic range. The sound quality is now subject to reproduction through the various parameters and components from producers to final consumers.

The Apdex Aural Exciter enhances these effects by creating a signal component of frequency response phase shift, amplitude response frequency, and adding this signal with the original.

It is a natural acoustic environment, a feature which has the primary signal as well as a signal delay, low level, stereo, and a phase shift. The signal is then added to the original signal, and the result is a signal which is more dynamic, more detailed, and more intelligible. Because the phase shift is now subject to reproduction through the various parameters and components from producers to final consumers.

However, there have been those who have produced and sold signals of equal quality and different results with the use of the Aural Exciter.

The Apdex Aural Exciter has been shown that a signal with normal hearing is most subject to change in the 10 to 10,000 Hz range. This range is critical for detail and definition. Since the Aural Exciter is especially designed to be most effective in the 10 to 10,000 Hz range, the results are most effective.

The only way a listener can differentiate between instruments is through their tones. The Aural Exciter enhances the greater the amount of these tones. The Aural Exciter enhances the tones of the instruments.

An excellent way to test the Aural Exciter is to listen to a signal with normal hearing. The Aural Exciter is used to enhance the high end, and the result is a signal which is more dynamic, more detailed, and more intelligible. Aphex Twin's Selected Ambient Works Volume II Marc Weidenbaum, 2014-02-13 Extravagantly opaque willfully vaporous Aphex Twin s Selected Ambient Works Volume II released by the estimable British label Warp Records in 1994 rejuvenated ambient music for the Internet Age that was just dawning In the United States it was Richard D James s first full length on Sire Records home to Madonna and Depeche Mode under the moniker Aphex Twin Sire helped usher him in as a major force in music electronic or otherwise Faithful to Brian Eno s definition of ambient music Selected Ambient Works Volume II was intentionally functional it furnished chill out rooms the sanctuaries amid intense raves Choreographers and film directors began to employ it to their own ends and in the intervening decades this background music came to the fore adapted by classical composers who reverse engineered its fragile textures for performance on acoustic instruments Simultaneously ambient has moved from esoteric sound art to central tenet of online culture This book contends that despite a reputation for being beatless the album exudes percussive curiosity providing a sonic metaphor for our technologically mediated era of countless synchronized nanosecond metronomes
