A Sourcebook For Responding To Student Writing:

A Sourcebook for Responding to Student Writing Richard Straub, 1999 A Sourcebook for Responding to Student Writing is a resource for writing teachers It provides a range of teacher comments on a sampling of college student papers and an anthology of key statements on theory and practice of responding to student writing Specifically the book presents twenty five sets of responses made on a sampling of five student papers including expressive explanatory evaluative and argumentative writing comments by a variety of teachers both well recognized composition scholars who have contributed to the research on teacher response and college English teachers whose primary area of study is outside composition two additional essays without accompanying teacher comments for further practice a detailed bibliography on teacher response a collection of noted articles on reading evaluating and responding to student writing Free of analysis and apparatus the book may be used by teachers in their own ways according to their own assumptions predilections and goals to develop better ways of responding to student writing From cover Response To Student Writing Dana R. Ferris, 2003-02-26 Synthesizes critically analyzes research on response to L2 student writing and discusses implications of the research for teaching specifically written oral teacher commentary error correction and peer response Intended for comp researchers

Key Works on Teacher Response Richard Straub, Ronald Lunsford, 2006 There s a special three way balance in responding to student writing you ve got to be compassionate have a vision for improvement and be capable of confronting and cajoling students to help them maximize the possibilities of revision Key Works on Teacher Response presents some of the best examples of how writing teachers approach the delicate equilibrium of student need and instructional imperative as well as how they learn from the awkwardness and missteps sometimes associated with responding to students written work Key Works on Teacher Response brings together twenty three of the most important articles published during the last thirty years concerning teacher response to student writing You ll understand the scope and history of teacher response through pieces by new thinkers and trusted voices from the past including George Hillocks Jr Andrea Lunsford Lil Brannon Peter Elbow and Chris Anson Together they cover the gamut of practical and theoretical teacher response topics from the impact of corrective markings and the importance of teacher praise to the rhetoric of teacher commentary and what contemporary trends in marking and grading say about the state of the process No matter whether you ve graded your first thirty papers or your first three thousand Key Works on Teacher Response offers you a variety of entry points into the ongoing discussion of how best to interact with student writers Read it find that you re not alone in seeking answers to the mysteries of responding to student writing and discover new thoughtful ways to read and respond that help balance what the process encourages students to do with your interest in encouraging them to write more effectively Assessing and Improving Student Writing in College Barbara E. Walvoord, 2014-07-07 Step by step guidance for shaping better writers while keeping faculty workloads manageable Effective communication is a critical skill for many academic disciplines and careers and so colleges and universities and their faculty members are rightfully committed to improving student writing across the curriculum Guiding and assessing student writing in classrooms general education and departments takes knowledge planning and persistence but it can be done effectively and efficiently Written in the concise accessible style Barbara Walvoord is known for Assessing and Improving Student Writing in College A Guide for Institutions General Education Departments and Classrooms offers administrators program chairs general education leaders and classroom instructors the guidance they need The book provides concrete suggestions for how to Articulate goals for student writing Measure student writing Improve student writing Document that improvement The book begins by addressing four basic concepts what we mean by writing what we mean by good writing how students learn to write and the purposes of assessment Next Walvoord explains the various approaches and methods for assessing writing urging a combination of them adapted to the institution s purposes and political context After this introduction successive chapters offer realistic practical advice to institution wide and general education leaders department members and classroom instructors Walvoord addresses issues such as how to engage faculty how to use rubrics how to aggregate assessment information at the department and institutional levels and how to report assessment information to accreditors The chapter for classroom instructors offers practical suggestions how to add more writing to a course without substantially increasing the grading load how to construct writing assignments how to make grading and responding more effective and time efficient how to address grammar and punctuation and how to support students whose native language is not English The book also includes four helpful appendices a taxonomy of Writing Across the Curriculum WAC and Writing in the Disciplines WID programs sample outlines for faculty development workshops a student survey on teaching methods instructors can use to inform their choices in the classroom and a student self check cover sheet designed to help students take ownership of their own learning and responsibility for turning in complete correct assignments Practical step by step guidance for each point in the assessment and improvement process creates a cohesive institution wide system that keeps students faculty and administrators on the same page

Designing Web-Based Applications for 21st Century Writing Classrooms George Pullman,Gu Baotong,2016-12-05 Designing Web Based Applications for 21st Century Writing Classrooms brings together for the first time a group of scholars and teachers who have been developing on their own initiative web based solutions to technical and professional writing instructional problems In industry the perennial question is whether to buy or build but in academia for various reasons buy is rarely an option Individual faculty members do not have the money to pay for software solutions and often their interests are too local or small scale to warrant institutional level involvement In addition the design of commercial applications from vendors typically does not take into account the unique needs and considerations of teachers of writing and often reflects a design ideology quite different from theirs This is why so many writing teachers have turned to open source solutions and in the process of learning how to tweak them to make them more responsive to their specific needs why so many of these teachers have developed programming and design skills Beyond exigency the motivation for becoming proficient at interface and database design comes from the observation that the nature of writing is changing dramatically Text is no longer an object It has become a place of interaction consumers are becoming producers And the work of technical and professional communication indeed the work of writing teachers more generally is becoming increasingly involved in the design and implementation of places of interaction Words have become data texts are becoming communities
