A User's Guide to Thought and Meaning Ray Jackendoff, 2012-02-23 A User s Guide to Thought and Meaning presents a profound and arresting integration of the faculties of the mind of how we think speak and see the world Ray Jackendoff starts out by looking at languages and what the meanings of words and sentences actually do He shows that meanings are more adaptive and complicated than they re commonly given credit for and he is led to some basic questions How do we perceive and act in the world How do we talk about it And how can the collection of neurons in the brain give rise to conscious experience As it turns out the organization of language thought and perception does not look much like the way we experience things and only a small part of what the brain does is conscious Jackendoff concludes that thought and meaning must be almost completely unconscious What we experience as rational conscious thought which we prize as setting us apart from the animals in fact rides on a foundation of unconscious intuition Rationality amounts to intuition enhanced by language Written with an informality that belies both the originality of its insights and the radical nature of its conclusions A User s Guide to Thought and Meaning is the author s most important book since the groundbreaking Foundations of Language in 2002

The Self-Conscious, Thinking Subject Robert Abele, 2021-08-18 This book argues that the primary function of human thinking in language is to make judgments which are logical normative connections of concepts Robert Abele points out that this presupposes cognitive conditions that cannot be accounted for by empirical linguistic analyses of language content or social conditions alone Judgments rather assume both reason and a unified subject and this requires recognition of a Kantian type of transcendental dimension to them Judgments are related to perception in that both are syntheses defined as the unity of representations according to a rule form Perceptual syntheses are simultaneously pre linguistic and proto rational and the understanding Kant's Verstand makes these syntheses conceptually and thus self consciously explicit Abele concludes with a transcendental critique of postmodernism and what its deflationary view of ontological categories such as the unified and reasoning subject has done to political thinking He presents an alternative that calls for a return to normativity and a recognition of reason objectivity and the universality of principles

Signs in Activities Dorthe Duncker, Adrian Pablé, 2024-03-27 This book is a collective volume bringing together scholars who share an interest in linguistics from an integrational point of view and in developing new directions for future scholarship Integrational linguistics invites us to rethink the theoretical and methodological premises of general linguistics by drawing on a different conception of the sign and by recognizing the creativity that human communication requires Some chapters are concerned with concepts like the sign contextualization activity and integration Although being core concepts developed by the founder of integrational linguistics Roy Harris they have arguably remained underdeveloped in Harris writings and thus call for further clarification and investigation Other chapters are concerned with the notions of the self and the social experience and interaction with questions about individual agency and will and human sociality and social organization which all occupy a central position in integrational theory Finally remaining chapters focus on how scriptism and the language myth have influenced our way of thinking about communication in a broad sense This edited collection will be of interest to a multidisciplinary readership comprising those engaged in study teaching and research in the humanities and social sciences including anthropology the arts education linguistics literary studies philosophy psychology and semiotics

Interaction Between Attention and Language Systems in Humans Ramesh Kumar Mishra, 2015-10-09 This original volume examines the interface between attentional and linguistic processes in humans from the perspectives of psycholinguistics and cognitive science It systematically explores how autonomy and automaticity are reflected during language processing in a variety of situations A true mechanistic explanation of how humans process language would require a complete understanding of the interface language has with important cognitive systems like attention memory as well as with vision Interdisciplinary work in this area has so far not been able to generate a substantial theoretical position on this issue This volume therefore looks at different language processing domains such as speaking listening reading as well as discourse and text processing to evaluate the role attention plays in such performances and also at how often linguistic inputs affect attentional processing In this sense it proposes that the attention language interface is bidirectional It also considers applied issues like language disorders bilingualism and illiteracy where the attention language interface seems especially relevant as a theoretical apparatus for research investigations Therefore this volume brings closer theoretical explanations from the language sciences and cognitive sciences It argues that language processing is multi modal in its very essence and many conceptual structures in language evolve out of a complex interplay among participating cognitive systems such as attention and memory supported by vision and audition Follow the Signs Rodney B.

Sangster,2020-02-15 In this his latest book Sangster presents a comprehensive theory that takes the cognitive view of language in a promising new direction based upon how linguistic signs relate to one another at different levels of consciousness At the rational level where signs are necessarily experienced in context they are primarily polysemic At the transpersonal or pre contextual level however they are monosemic constituting a dynamic and self organizing relational structure capable of producing a potentially infinite variety of contextual applications The two levels are united by a stochastic or somatic selection process called contextualization where feedback from experience assures the evolution of the system The relational structure itself is composed of archetypes of space and time consciousness that derive from the evolution of the linguistic sign from the signaling behavior of antecedent species Detailed analyses are provided to explain how the archetypes structure meaning in both the grammatical and lexical spheres as well as in syntax The
