A War Of Nerves Soldiers And Psychiatrists In The Twentieth Century:

A War of Nerves Ben Shephard, 2001 This is a history of military psychiatry in the twentieth century Both absorbing historical narrative and intellectual detective story it weaves literary medical and military lore to give us a fascinating history of war neuroses and their treatment from the World Wars through Vietnam and up to the Gulf War Stress, Shock, and Adaptation in the Twentieth Century David Cantor, Edmund Ramsden, 2014 This edited volume brings together leading scholars to explore the emergence of the stress concept and its ever changing definitions since the 1940s Stress is one of the most widely utilized medical concepts in modern society Originally used to describe physiological responses to trauma it is now applied in a variety of other fields and contexts such as in the construction and expression of personal identity social relations building and engineering and the various complexities of the competitive capitalist economy In addition scientists and medical experts use the concept to explore the relationship between an ever increasing number of environmental stressors and the evolution of an expanding range of mental and chronic organic diseases such as hypertension gastric ulcers arthritis allergies and cancer This edited volume brings together leading scholars to explore the emergence and development of the stress concept and its definitions as they have changed over time It examines how stress and closely related concepts have been used to connect disciplines such as architecture ecology physiology psychiatry psychology public health urban planning and a range of social sciences its application in different settings such as the battlefield workplace clinic hospital and home and the advancement of techniques of stress management in a number of different national sociocultural and scientific locations Contributors Theodore M Brown David Cantor Otniel E Dror Rhodri Hayward Mark Jackson Robert G W Kirk Junko Kitanaka Tulley Long Joseph Melling Edmund Ramsden Elizabeth Siegel Watkins Allan Young David Cantor is acting director Office of History National Institutes of Health Edmund Ramsden is Wellcome Trust University Award Research Fellow at the School of History Queen Mary University of London American POW Memoirs from the Revolutionary War through the Vietnam War Jon Alexander, 2007-02-01 Fourteen student papers from an undergraduate seminar examine American POW memoirs from the Revolutionary War through the Vietnam War The focus of the student authors is on how American POWs have constructed narratives of their internments The papers examine various styles of narration characterization and plot construction and how the POW memoirs are framed with introductions quotations maps and illustrations Overall these papers suggest that the contexts in which authors write POW memoirs may influence the character of the memoirs they write as much as the attributes of their POW experiences American POW Memoirs is a unique collection of papers This publication provides an example of how an undergraduate seminar might move from training students in scholarly practice to providing students a first experience as scholarly practitioners Traumatic Memories of the Second World War and After Peter Leese, Jason Crouthamel, 2016-10-05 This collection investigates the social and cultural history of trauma to offer a comparative analysis of its individual communal and political effects in the twentieth century Particular attention is given to witness testimony to procedures of personal memory and collective commemoration and to visual sources as they illuminate the changing historical nature of trauma The essays draw on diverse methodologies including oral history and use varied sources such as literature film and the broadcast media The contributions discuss imaginative communal and political responses as well as the ways in which the later welfare of traumatized individuals is shaped by medical military and civilian institutions Incorporating innovative methodologies and offering a thorough evaluation of current research the book shows new directions in historical trauma studies

Britain's War Machine David Edgerton, 2011-09-09 The familiar image of the British in the Second World War is that of the plucky underdog taking on German might David Edgerton's bold compelling new history shows the conflict in a new light with Britain as a very wealthy country formidable in arms ruthless in pursuit of its interests and in command of a global production system Rather than belittled by a Nazi behemoth Britain arguably had the world's most advanced mechanized forces It had not only a great empire but allies large and small Edgerton shows that Britain fought on many fronts and its many home fronts kept it exceptionally well supplied with weapons food and oil allowing it to mobilize to an extraordinary extent It created and deployed a vast empire of machines from the humble tramp steamer to the battleship from the rifle to the tank made in colossal factories the world over Scientists and engineers invented new weapons encouraged by a government and prime minister enthusiastic about the latest technologies The British indeed Churchillian vision of war and modernity was challenged by repeated defeat at the hands of less well equipped enemies Yet the end result was a vindication of this vision Like the United States a powerful Britain won a cheap victory while others paid a great price Putting resources machines and experts at the heart of a global rather than merely imperial story Britain's War Machine demolishes timeworn myths about wartime Britain and gives us a groundbreaking and often unsettling picture of a great power in action

Military Law Review, 2001

Combat Trauma Nadia Abu El-Haj, 2022-09-27 Americans have long been asked to support the troops and care for veterans psychological wounds Who though does this injunction serve As acclaimed scholar Nadia Abu El Haj argues here in the American public's imagination the traumatized soldier stands in for destructive wars abroad with decisive ramifications in the post 9/11 era Across the political spectrum the language of soldier trauma is used to discuss American warfare producing a narrative in which traumatized soldiers are the only acknowledged casualties of war while those killed by American firepower are largely sidelined and forgotten In this wide ranging and fascinating study of the meshing of medicine science and politics Abu El Haj explores the concept of post traumatic stress disorder and the history of its medical diagnosis While antiwar Vietnam War veterans sought to address their psychological pain even as they maintained full awareness of their guilt and responsibility for perpetrating atrocities on the killing fields of Vietnam by the 1980s a peculiar convergence of feminist activism against sexual violence and Reagan s right wing war on crime transformed the idea of PTSD into a condition of victimhood In so doing the meaning of Vietnam veterans trauma would also shift moving away from a political space of reckoning with guilt and complicity to one that cast them as blameless victims of a hostile public upon their return home This is how in the post 9 11 era of the Wars on Terror the injunction to support our troops came to both sustain US militarism and also shields American civilians from the reality of wars fought ostensibly in their name In this compelling and crucial account Nadia Abu El Haj challenges us to think anew about the devastations of the post 9 11 era Envisioning Disease, Gender, and War J. Fisher, 2016-04-30 This critical study illuminates the neglected intersection of war disease and gender as represented in an important subgenre of World War I literature It calls into question public versus private perceptions of time mass media urban spaces emotion and the increasingly uncertain status of the future
