How to Write a Chemistry Lab Report

- Reading (see also the following information)
 - Three Times/Partners: Read before experiment, then again, then
- Introduction (paragraph)
 - Include any information that introduces the concepts explored in this lab. This section should "set the scene" for the rest of the lab report. (In fact, the lab is almost self-explanatory; you should follow "what" and "how".)
- Purpose (sentence)
 - Complete the sentence "The purpose of this experiment is to..."
- Materials (list)
 - Make a list of all materials used in the lab investigation.
- Procedure (written for one's paragraph)
 - Follow in the third person (no pronouns)
 - Use past tense (not Latin past participles - this makes writing the procedure easier)
 - A procedure should be written in that order you actually do the experiment, not a "cookbook" order.
- Observations (an or paragraph)
 - The description you see, smell, feel and hear/feel etc.
 - Include data tables, graphs, diagrams, etc. (Don't forget a table's title/description)
 - Graphs should be drawn/finished during the experiment and should be on graph paper (use a computer and printer). You must include labels, units, legends, etc.
- Questions (if you have them, these points will be addressed in the conclusion)
 - Answer the questions at the end of the lab or FOLLOW UP QUESTIONS
 - Do you have further questions?
- Conclusion (paragraph is a sentence)
 - This summarizes the whole thing (in a paragraph)
