Assessment Practices

Types of Assessments

- 1. Diagnostic: assesses students' knowledge and skills before instruction to identify strengths and needs so that instruction can be tailored to meet their individual learning needs (e.g., pre-test).
- 2. Formative: designed to monitor student learning and provide ongoing feedback to improve learning during the learning process (e.g., quizzes, class discussions).
- 3. Summative: measures student learning at the end of a course or unit, often for grading purposes (e.g., final exam, standardized tests).

"Language is the great sign of a nation. It tells you where it is, and who it is. It is the soul of a nation. It is the heart of a nation. It is the life of a nation."

—Nelson Mandela

Alignment of Assessment

Assessment should be aligned with the learning objectives of the course. This means that the assessment should measure the same skills and knowledge that are being taught in the course. For example, if the course objective is for students to be able to write a persuasive essay, then the assessment should include a writing task that requires students to write a persuasive essay. This ensures that the assessment is a valid measure of student learning and that it is fair to the students.
