Intimacy on the Internet Lauren Rosewarne, 2016-04-14 The focus of this book is on the media representations of the use of the Internet in seeking intimate connections be it a committed relationship a hook up or a community in which to dabble in fringe sexual practices Popular culture film narrative television the news media and advertising present two very distinct pictures of the use of the Internet as related to intimacy From news reports about victims of online dating to the presentation of the desperate and dateless the perverts and the deviants a distinct frame for the intimacy Internet connection is negativity In some examples however a changing picture is emerging The ubiquitousness of Internet use today has meant a slow increase in comparatively more positive representations of successful online romances in the news resulting in more positive spin advertising and a more even handed presence of such liaisons in narrative television and film Both the positive and the negative media representations are categorised and analysed in this book to explore what they reveal about the intersection of gender sexuality technology and the changing mores regarding intimacy

Cyberbullies, Cyberactivists, Cyberpredators Lauren Rosewarne, 2016-01-25 Written by an expert in media popular culture gender and sexuality this book surveys the common archetypes of Internet users from geeks nerds and gamers to hackers scammers and predators and assesses what these stereotypes reveal about our culture's attitudes regarding gender technology intimacy and identity The Internet has enabled an exponentially larger number of people individuals who are members of numerous and vastly different subgroups to be exposed to one other As a result instead of the simple jocks versus geeks paradigm of previous eras our society now has more detailed stereotypes of the undesirable the under the radar and the ostracized cyberperverts neckbeards goths tech nerds and anyone with a non heterosexual identity Each chapter of this book explores a different stereotype of the Internet user with key themes such as gender technophobia and sexuality explored with regard to that specific characterization of online users Author Lauren Rosewarne PhD supplies a highly interdisciplinary perspective that draws on research and theories from a range of fields psychology sociology and communications studies as well as feminist theory film theory political science and philosophy to analyze what these stereotypes mean in the context of broader social and cultural issues From cyberbullies to chronically masturbating porn addicts to desperate online daters readers will see the paradox in popular culture's message that while Internet use is universal actual Internet users are somehow subpar less desirable less cool less friendly than everybody else

Picture Cycle Masha Tupitsyn, 2019-11-19 A multigenre investigation of the personal and cultural annals of memory identity and spectatorship both on and off the screen In exchange for studying what each fraudulent cell looks like under a merciless commercial and commodified lens viewers enable late capitalism to run more smoothly by calling in with their votes as is the case with Reality TV From the inside secrecy appears eradicated as though secrets or coded transparencies comprise the totality of injustice rather than just one part Justice is reduced to a vantage point We see and we see and we see ad infinitum from Picture Cycle With her debut collection Beauty Talk Monsters 2007 Masha Tupitsyn established a new genre of hybrid writing that melded film criticism philosophy and autobiography Picture Cycle continues Tupitsyn's multigenre investigation of the personal and cultural annals of memory identity and spectatorship both on and off the screen Composed over a ten year period Picture Cycle is a pioneering collection whose sharp and knowing vignette like essays form a critical autobiography of the daily images in our lives Deftly covering a range of theoretical and cinematic frameworks Tupitsyn traces here the quickly vanishing line between onscreen and offscreen predigital and postdigital The result is a unique intellectual study of the uncanny formation of our life's biographies through images

Feeling Things Stephanie Downes,Sally Holloway,Sarah Randles,2018-01-13 This interdisciplinary essay collection investigates the various interactions of people feelings and things throughout premodern Europe It focuses on the period before mass production when limited literacy often prioritised material methods of communication The subject of materiality has been of increasing significance in recent historical inquiry alongside growing emphasis on the relationships between objects emotions and affect in archaeological and sociological research The historical intersections between materiality and emotions however have remained under theorised particularly with respect to artefacts that have continuing resonance over extended periods of time or across cultural and geographical space Feeling Things addresses the need to develop an appropriate cross disciplinary theoretical framework for the analysis of objects and emotions in European history with special attention to the need to track the shifting emotional valencies of objects from the past to the present and from one place and cultural context to another The collection draws together an international group of historians art historians curators and literary scholars working on a variety of cultural literary visual and material sources Objects considered include books letters prosthetics religious relics shoes stone and textiles Many of these have been preserved in international galleries museums and archives while others have remained in their original locations even as their contexts have changed over time The chapters consider the ways in which emotions such as despair fear grief hope love and wonder become inscribed in and ascribed to these items producing emotional objects of significance and agency Such objects can be harnessed to create affirm or express individual relationships as for example in religious devotion and practice or in the construction of cultural communal and national identities
