Assessing What Really Matters In Schools Creating Hope For The Future:

Assessing What Really Matters in Schools Ronald J. Newell, Mark J. Van Ryzin, 2009 Since the 1960s efforts to reform education including various curricular changes reading approaches teacher preparation money for the disadvantaged and different instructional approaches have failed to bring about true systemic change because the reforms fail to deal with a different definition of learning The Hope Study was created to discover whether a radically different learning environment would achieve different outcomes In detailing the outcome of the Hope Study Assessing What Really Matters in Schools gives hope to innovative and progressive schools to new and different accountability systems while changing the conversation from an achievement discourse to a human development discourse

The Future of Service-Learning Jean R. Strait, Marybeth Lima, 2023-07-03 As a new generation of practitioners engages with service learning at a time when higher education faces questions about learning outcomes and costs and in the context of such issues as globalization and the environment this book poses important questions about practice institutional sustainability and future directions Among these are What counts as service learning What value does it bring to institutions Is it appropriate for all students How is globalization impacting service learning Divided into three thematic parts this book successively covers institutional and administrative issues service learning as a springboard for research and presents new practices that address emerging challenges and changing student populations The contributors review how different institutional types have structured their service learning activities address the issue of centralization or decentralization propose better ways to form community partnerships consider promotion and tenure implications postulate framing service learning and community engagement as scholarship and examine service learning as a springboard for research Further chapters offer a new blueprint for funding to achieve sustainability examples of international service learning from a European perspective a case study and framework for using on line formats to extend the reach of a program raise the urgent issue of the experiences and contributions of underrepresented students and present the rationale and processes for developing effective student led evaluation of programs

Building a Culture of Hope Robert D. Barr, Emily L. Gibson, 2013-05-20 Research demonstrates that children of poverty need more than just academic instruction to succeed Discover a blueprint for turning low performing schools into Cultures of Hope The authors draw from their own experiences working with high poverty high achieving schools to illustrate how to support students with an approach that considers social as well as emotional factors in education

Counting What Counts Yong Zhao, 2015-10-23 Overemphasizing test scores as measures of achievement is potentially harmful to education The contributors identify key traits such as mindset motivation social skills creativity and entrepreneurial spirit that students teachers and schools need to acknowledge and cultivate Educators are asked to shift the evaluation paradigm to focus on a multiplicity of skills necessary for success in the 21st century

Trusting Teachers with School Success Kim Farris-Berg, Edward J. Dirks, Amy Junge, 2013 Lately our nation's strategy for improving our schools is mostly limited to getting tough with teachers Blaming teachers for poor outcomes we spend almost all of our energy trying to control teachers behavior and school operations But what if all of this is exactly the opposite of what is needed What if teachers are the answer and not the problem What if trusting teachers and not controlling them is the key to school success Examining the experiences of teachers who are already trusted to call the shots this book answers What would teachers do if they had the autonomy not just to make classroom decisions but to collectively with their colleagues make the decisions influencing whole school success Decisions such as school curriculum how to allocate the school budget and whom to hire Teachers with decision making authority create the schools that many of us profess to want They individualize learning Their students are active not passive learners who gain academic and life skills The teachers create school cultures that are the same as those in high performing organizations They accept accountability and innovate and make efficient use of resources These promising results suggest it's time to trust teachers

Curriculum Construction Laurie Brady, Kerry Kennedy, 2013-10-24 Curriculum Construction 5e introduces and analyses all aspects of curriculum development interpretation and implementation The text develops students understanding of both the theoretical and practical components of curriculum construction The theoretical dimension of the text includes coverage of the broad social and political influences on a curriculum coverage of global contexts national curriculum initiatives and a discussion of values in education The practical section of the text provides teachers as well as members of the school community with the knowledge and skills to engage fully in the task of curriculum construction

Every Parent'S Dilemma Don Berg,2015-02-13 Fact The required foundation for effective and efficient learning is well being Good News Children s psychological well being is supported in K 12 schools that facilitate self directed learning Bad News The psychological well being of children in mainstream K 12 schools is consistently diminished Silver Lining This good news can transform the bad news Why do K 12 schools that facilitate self directed learning serve less than 5% of all students in the USA despite over 100 years of good results The systematic growth of school models that support self directed learning has been stunted by hidden barriers The hidden barriers also prevent more mainstream schools from sustainably adapting their practices to become more nurturing The barriers are based on a theory of education that is wrong K 12 policy makers at every level can remove those barriers by making an explicit commitment to ensuring that the schools they oversee support well being This book includes the Resolution to Build on Well Being to Achieve K 12 Equity which you can take to your favorite policy makers to advocate for the well being of all students

Time for Action Scott D. Wurdinger,2012 This book should be read by anyone concerned about the future of education in the United States It was written for students parents educators administrators and policy makers because it will require effort from all these individuals to create meaningful change in the education system This book discusses why the education system needs to change now and provides practical examples of teaching approaches school models and assessment systems that can move the education system forward in the right direction Students deserve an education that teaches them how to solve challenging problems and inspires them to become life long learners Read this book and then go out and implement these ideas
