Explorations in Critical Studies of Advertising James F. Hamilton, Robert Bodle, Ezequiel Korin, 2016-10-26 This volume provides a thoughtful and wide ranging exploration of approaches to the critical study of advertising Current and impending practices of advertising have in many ways exceeded the grasp of traditional modes of critique due at least in part to their being formulated in very different historical conditions To begin to address this lag this edited collection explores through critical discussion and application a variety of critical approaches to advertising Authors address a variety of concrete examples in their chapters drawing on existing research while presenting new findings where relevant In order to maintain the relevance of this collection past this particular historical moment however chapters do not simply report on empirical work but develop a theoretical argument

The Television Studies Reader Robert Clyde Allen, Annette Hill, 2004 The Television Studies Reader brings together key writings in the expanding field of television studies providing an overview of the discipline and addressing issues of industry genre audiences production and ownership and representation The Reader charts the ways in which television and television studies are being redefined by new and alternative ways of producing broadcasting and watching TV such as cable satellite and digital broadcasting home video internet broadcasting and interactive TV as well as exploring the recent boom in genres such as reality TV and docu-soaps It brings together articles from leading international scholars to provide perspectives on television programmes and practices from around the world acknowledging both television's status as a global medium and the many and varied local contexts of its production and reception Articles are grouped in seven themed sections each with an introduction by the editors Institutions of Television Spaces of Television Modes of Television Making Television Social Representation on Television Watching Television Transforming Television

Reading Ads Socially Robert Goldman, 2005-07-25 This systematic and authoritative book provides an unrivalled guide to understanding ad culture It shows how the logic of commodities permeates the ways we think about ourselves our relationships and our desires Richly illustrated and written with great clarity it will be essential reading for anyone interested in ad culture

The Dynamics of Advertising Jackie Botterill, Iain MacRury, Barry Richards, 2013-12-19 The authors suggest that advertisements while important in our daily emotional self management are far more closely linked to the pragmatics of everyday life than their symbolic richness might suggest Recent trends in advertisement content point to an important shift in our relationship to goods that reflects an increasing preoccupation with risk management      Desperately Seeking the Audience Ien Ang, 2006-06-28 Millions of people all over the world are avid members of the television audience Yet despite the central place television occupies in contemporary culture our understanding of its complex and dynamic role in everyday life remains surprisingly limited Focusing on the television audience Ien Ang asks why we understand so little about its nature and argues that our ignorance arises directly out of the biases inherent in prevailing official knowledge about it She sets out to deconstruct the assumptions of this official knowledge by exploring the territory where it is mainly produced the television institutions Ang draws on Foucault's theory of power knowledge to scrutinize television's desperate search for the audience and to identify differences and similarities in the approaches of American commercial television and European public service television to their audiences She looks carefully at recent developments in the field of ratings research in particular the controversial introduction of the people meter as an instrument for measuring the television audience By defining the limits and limitations of these institutional procedures of knowledge production Ien Ang opens up new avenues for understanding television audiences Her ethnographic perspective on the television audience gives new insights into our television culture with the audience seen not as an object to be controlled but as an active social subject engaging with television in a variety of cultural and creative ways
