An Investigation Of Various Linguistic Changes In Chinese And Naxi:

An Investigation of Various Linguistic Changes in Chinese and Naxi Jung-yao Lu, 2013-08-19 The comparative analysis of historical linguistics focuses on reconstructing ancient patterns based on diachronic records and typological data from several languages or dialects in a language group The ultimate aim of the comparative reconstruction which requires significant cross linguistic observation and theoretical reasoning is to demonstrate the historical process of language changes This book considers the diachronic development of both the Chinese language and the Naxi language focusing particularly upon six contentious linguistic issues that are associated with various linguistic changes in most areas of the grammar of these languages including phonological changes semantic changes syntactic changes and contact induced changes These linguistic issues are 1 tonal splits in proto checked syllables and subgrouping of Loloish 2 the semantic development of RETURN in Chinese 3 the semantic development of TAKE in Chinese 4 the development of agentive passive markers in certain dialects of Chinese 5 definiteness and nominalization relativization and genitivization in Chinese and 6 the development of nominalization relativization and genitivization in Naxi This volume provides new methods and perspectives through which these issues can be analyzed and resolved on the basis of typological and diachronic evidence It uses cross linguistic data from Chinese and the Tibeto Burman languages in order to reconstruct various diachronic developments in Chinese and Naxi

Language Rights in a Changing China Alexandra Grey, 2021-05-10 China has had constitutional minority language rights for decades but what do they mean today Answering with nuance and empirical detail this book examines the rights through a sociolinguistic study of Zhuang the language of China s largest minority group The analysis traces language policy from the Constitution to local government practices investigating how Zhuang language rights are experienced as opening or restricting socioeconomic opportunity The study finds that language rights do not challenge ascendant marketised and mobility focused language ideologies which ascribe low value to Zhuang However people still value a Zhuang identity validated by government policy and practice Rooted in a Bourdieusian approach to language power and legal discourse this is the first major publication to integrate contemporary debates in linguistics about mobility capitalism and globalization into a study of China s language policy The book refines Grey s award winning doctoral dissertation which received the Joshua A Fishman Award in 2018 The judges said the study decenter s all types of sociolinguistic assumptions It is a thought provoking work on minority rights and language politics relevant beyond China
