Bargain Warehouse:

Bargain Fever Mark Ellwood, 2014-09-30 A spirited investigation into the world of bargain hunting and how shoppers and sellers try to one up each other from the haggling bazaars of Istanbul to Black Friday at a mall in upstate New York to pinnacles of global luxury such as Hermes and Louis Vuitton

Where Bad Jobs Are Better Françoise Carré, Chris Tilly, 2017-11-16 Retail is now the largest employer in the United States For the most part retail jobs are bad jobs characterized by low wages unpredictable work schedules and few opportunities for advancement However labor experts Françoise Carré and Chris Tilly show that these conditions are not inevitable In Where Bad Jobs Are Better they investigate retail work across different industries and seven countries to demonstrate that better retail jobs are not just possible but already exist By carefully analyzing the factors that lead to more desirable retail jobs Where Bad Jobs Are Better charts a path to improving job quality for all low wage jobs In surveying retail work across the United States Carré and Tilly find that the majority of retail workers receive low pay and nearly half work part time which contributes to high turnover and low productivity Jobs staffed predominantly by women such as grocery store cashiers pay even less than retail jobs in male dominated fields such as consumer electronics Yet when comparing these jobs to similar positions in Western Europe Carré and Tilly find surprising differences In France though supermarket cashiers perform essentially the same work as cashiers in the United States they receive higher pay are mostly full time and experience lower turnover and higher productivity And unlike the United States where many retail employees are subject to unpredictable schedules in Germany retailers are required by law to provide their employees notice of work schedules six months in advance The authors show that disparities in job quality are largely the result of differing social norms and national institutions For instance weak labor regulations and the decline of unions in the United States have enabled retailers to cut labor costs aggressively in ways that depress wages and discourage full time work On the other hand higher minimum wages greater government regulation of work schedules and stronger collective bargaining through unions and works councils have improved the quality of retail jobs in Europe As retail and service work continue to expand American employers and policymakers will have to decide the extent to which these jobs will be good or bad Where Bad Jobs Are Better shows how stronger rules and regulations can improve the lives of retail workers and boost the quality of low wage jobs across the board

Creating Good Jobs Paul Osterman, 2020-01-28 Experts discuss improving job quality in low wage industries including retail residential construction hospitals and long term healthcare restaurants manufacturing and long haul trucking Americans work harder and longer than our counterparts in other industrialized nations Yet prosperity remains elusive to many Workers in such low wage industries as retail restaurants and home construction live from paycheck to paycheck juggling multiple jobs with variable schedules few benefits and limited prospects for advancement These bad outcomes are produced by a range of industry specific factors including intense competition outsourcing and subcontracting failure to enforce employment standards overt discrimination outmoded production and management systems and inadequate worker voice In this volume experts look for ways to improve job quality in the low wage sector They offer in depth examinations of specific industries long term healthcare hospitals and outpatient care retail residential construction restaurants manufacturing and long haul trucking that together account for more than half of all low wage jobs The book s sector view allows the contributors to address industry specific variations that shape operational choices about work Drawing on deep industry knowledge they consider important distinctions within and between these industries the financial institutional and structural incentives that shape the choices employers make and what it would take to make more jobs better jobs Contributors Eileen Appelbaum Rosemary Batt Dale Belman Julie Brockman Fran oise Carr Susan Helper Matt Hinkel Tashlin Lakhani JaeEun Lee Raphael Martins Russell Ormiston Paul Osterman Can Ouyang Chris Tilly Steve Viscelli Decisions and Orders of the National Labor Relations Board United States.
