Genomics and Democracy Peter Derkx, Harry Kunneman, 2013-09-01 This book addresses the ethical and political questions flowing from the vastly increased possibilities to manipulate the genetic properties of organisms including human beings Due to the great complexity of the scientific fields involved these questions are framed and answered mostly by scientific experts But the new technological possibilities and social practices connected with genetic manipulation intrude into domains that for a long time have been the provenance of religious and secular worldviews and touch upon deep seated convictions and emotions Moreover they are strongly influenced by economic and political interests As a consequence questions of scientific truth and technical control are getting more and more mixed up with questions regarding values and interests Against this background this book starts from the premise that neither clinging to the idea of value neutral disinterested science nor the complete abandonment of this idea in favour of postmodern relativism will be of much help here Instead the different contributions to this book explore the idea of a lingua democratica for the life sciences and sketch the contours of this notion by focusing on a broad range of conceptual and practical issues in the field of genomics The Need for Theory Simon Biggs,Jon Hendricks,Ariela

Lowenstein,2020-11-25 The Need for Theory speaks to the burgeoning need for critical thinking in social gerontology The editors have brought together some of the foremost contributors to theoretical advances in the field This volume incorporates state of the art theorizing with a focus on selected topical areas facing gerontologists around the world Using their keen insights into substantive issues the contributors examine personal and structural changes affecting individuals over the life course Extolling the need for theory is not enough the contributors focus their insights on a panoply of substantive issues linking the personal with the political and with the structural parameters that shape the process of aging no matter where it occurs Health and Wellness ,
