Air Mobility Operations Joint Publication 3 17:

Air Mobility Operations (Joint Publication 3-17) Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, 2012-10-01 This publication provides joint doctrine for planning, employing, and assessing air mobility operations across the range of military operations. Air mobility is a network of systems that combines airlift, airdrop, aeromedical evacuation, AE, air refueling, AR, and air mobility support assets, processes, and procedures into an integrated whole to support the transport of personnel and materiel. The Secretary of Defense, SecDef, directs the assignment of air mobility forces to the Commander, United States Transportation Command, CDR, USTRANSCOM, and other combatant commanders, CDRs. To deter threats against or to assist in the defense or pursuit of United States, US, national interests, the Department of Defense maintains forces, organizations, and processes necessary to conduct air mobility operations. The National Air Mobility System, NAMS, is a broad and comprehensive system that provides the President, SecDef, and CDRs with rapid global mobility. The mobility air forces, MAF, are those forces assigned to combatant commands that provide rapid global mobility and conduct air mobility operations. The MAF's four core functions are airlift, AR, air mobility support, and AE. NAMS consists of forces that perform intertheater, intratheater, and organic mobility operations. US Transportation Command, USTRANSCOM, and the geographic combatant commands, GCCs, possess air mobility assets that are capable of performing both intertheater and intratheater operations. A unique aspect of these operations is their reliance on the Global Air Mobility Support System, GAMSS, and the worldwide command and control, C2, capabilities of the Air Mobility Command, 618th Tanker Airlift Control Center, 618th TACC. The GAMSS is comprised of a limited number of permanent en route support locations plus mobile forces that deploy under the global reach laydown strategy. This publication has been prepared under the direction of the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. It sets forth joint doctrine to govern the activities and performance of the Armed Forces of the United States in joint operations and provides the doctrinal basis for interagency coordination and for US military involvement in multinational operations. It provides military guidance for the exercise of authority by combatant commanders and other joint force commanders, JFCs, and prescribes joint doctrine for operations, education, and training. It provides military guidance for use by the Armed Forces in preparing their appropriate plans. It is not the intent of this publication to restrict the authority of the JFC from organizing the force and executing the mission in a manner the JFC deems most appropriate to ensure unity of effort in the accomplishment of the overall objective. Joint doctrine established in this publication applies to the joint staff, commanders of combatant commands, subunified commands, joint task forces, subordinate components of these commands, and the Services. The guidance in this publication is authoritative as such; this doctrine will be followed except when in the judgment of the commander, exceptional circumstances dictate otherwise. Air Mobility Operations U.S. Joint Force Command, 2014-07-25. Air mobility is the rapid movement of personnel, materiel, and forces to and from or within a theater by air. This includes both airlift and air refueling, AR. The air mobility network combines airlift, AR, aeromedical evacuation, AE, and air mobility support.
