Clinical Intensive Care Medicine Carlos M H Gomez, 2014-08-14 Intensive care patients are the most critically ill in any hospital and they are a patient group that utilises a disproportionate amount of medical resources. Intensive care medicine around for about 40 years is a relatively recent but globally expanding specialty due to a growing geriatric population, discerning demand for health system. The older generation of intensivists are approaching retirement. The middle generation is trained in various medical specialties and then subspecialised in intensive care. These doctors now lead the way in clinical practice, research, management and training. On the other hand, the younger generation of intensivists includes an ever-increasing number of doctors who for the first time enjoy a structured training program with clinical rotations, courses and exam qualifications. Written by outstanding specialist practitioners who are also internationally acclaimed authors from the UK and North America, this is an authoritative guide to practical intensive care medicine. The clinical contents of the book share a practical and educational common thread with each chapter addressing pertinent clinical challenges comprehensively. This invaluable book is specially targeted at medical students, trainees in intensive care medicine and other acute specialties, consultants wishing to remain up to date on all branches of this vast specialty and other allied professionals practicing in intensive care including nurses and physiotherapists. Essential Burn Care for Non-Burn Specialists Jong O. Lee, 2023-07-19 Despite a decreasing number of burns and improvement in mortality of burn patients in the United States burn injuries are still frequent Non burn specialists such as emergency medicine physicians and primary care physicians will inevitably treat burn patients In many instances the first clinicians to see burn patients are non burn specialists in the urgent care emergency department or primary care clinic yet they typically do not have any formal training or exposure to burns in residency As a result many clinicians feel uneasy about managing burns even if the burn is minor If a burn center is in a reasonable proximity one can transfer the patient but prior to transfer or if no burn center is available these clinicians may have to perform the initial management It is important that they understand the basic principles of burn care In times of burn disasters non burn specialists are needed to care for burn patients as burn centers can be quickly overwhelmed They should be able to manage burn patients including stabilization resuscitation and wound care The text includes all current management available today for the care of burn patients It is organized in a stepwise manner with clear information listed in sequential chapter formats Chapter one offers the basic epidemiology of burn care while chapters three and four discuss the initial assessment and management The chapter five discusses inhalation injury while the next three chapters focus on burn wound management including face and hand The majority of chapters that follow center on a specific type of burn or burn patient The last few chapters discuss aftercare including scar management and burn rehabilitation Written by experts in the field Essential Burn Care for Non Burn Specialists is a valuable guide for any physician involved in burn treatment such as emergency physicians primary care physicians and general and plastic surgeons
