The Practice Guidance for the Early Years Foundation Stage sets out the requirement that children be provided with positive images that challenge children's thinking and help them embrace differences in gender, ethnicity, language, religion, culture. Stories are a powerful medium that engage and envelop young children, helping them to enter unfamiliar worlds and begin to empathise with characters from different backgrounds. This book provides a range of stories through which young children can explore and learn about other cultures. Each activity page will include the story, adult led and independent activity ideas to follow up the story, related songs, poems and rhymes. A list of additional stories, information books and websites. Relevant links with the EYFS Areas of Learning and Development.

Animals into Art Howard Morphy, 2014-10-30 This book is one of a series of volumes resulting from the World Archaeological Congress, September 1986, which addressed world archaeology in its widest sense, investigating how people lived in the past and how and why changes took place to result in the forms of society and culture which exist now. The series brought together archaeologists and anthropologists from many parts of the world, academics from contingent disciplines and also non academics from a wide range of cultural backgrounds who could lend their own expertise to the discussions. This book is an exploration of the way in which the animal world features in the works of art of a variety of cultures of different times and places. Contributors have adopted a variety of perspectives for looking at the complex ways in which past and present humans have interrelated with beings they classify as animals. Some of the approaches are predominantly economic and ecological, some are symbolic and others philosophical or theological. All these different views are included in the interpretation of the artworks of the past, revealing some of the foci and inspirations of cultural attitudes to animals. discussion beyond the boundaries of behavioral biology through its stimulating and often provocative theses After vigorous debates between behaviorists anthropologists and sociologists we have entered a period of exchange of thoughts and a mutual approach which in many instances has led to cooperative projects of researchers from different disciplines This work offers a biological point of view for discussion and includes data from the author's cross cultural work and research from the staff of his institute It confirms above all else the astonishing unity of mankind and paints a basically positive picture of how we are moved by the same passions jealousies friendliness and active curiosity The need to understand ourselves has never been as great as it is today An ideologically torn humanity struggles for its survival Our species does not know how it should compensate its workers and it experiments with various economic systems constitutions and forms of government It struggles for freedom and stumbles into newer conflicts Population growth is apparently completely out of hand and at the same time many resources are being depleted We must consider our existence rati
