Are Government Bailouts Effective At Issue:

Are Unions Still Relevant? Noah Berlatsky, 2013-02-21 The U S Bureau of Labor Statistics states that in 2016 16.3 million American wage and salary workers were represented by a union. Statistics correlate that union workers are paid at least 200 00 dollars higher per week than non union workers. Unions are specifically created and operated to protect the worker from unfair business practices and improve the quality of life for workers. Conversely some unions have such a stronghold on productivity numbers that workers once having met their quota for the day can stop working. Big businesses view unions as friends or foe because of their power and ability to change the workplace on behalf of the worker's rights and desires. While sheer numbers of membership show that unions are relevant there are several factors left to debate. This volume offers the full breadth of perspectives on unions through eyewitness accounts, governmental views, scientific analysis, and newspaper accounts. Your readers will be able to use this one source as an excellent research tool. Main ideas are copied from the text and repeated as pull quotes so that readers can track the important facts as they are developing opinions on unions, writing reports, or otherwise.
