lightning Picnic Comma Lightning too opens with death that of Laurence Scott's mother because for a philosopher death raises a profound existential question How do we know what is real especially when we have come to question the reality of so many of our day to day experiences Writing from the intersection of philosophy politics and memoir Scott transforms his personal meditation on loss into a beguiling exploration of what it means to exist in the world today It used to be that our lives were rooted in reasonably solid things to people places and memories Now in an age of online personas alternative truths constant surveillance and an increasingly hysterical news cycle our realities are becoming flimsier and more vulnerable than ever before Scott's far ranging examination charts the ways our traditional mental models of the world have started to fray He ponders how ubiquitous cameras reframe our private lives an event only exists once someone posts the video how mysterious algorithms undermine our attempts at self definition through their own data driven portraits and what happens in those moments when our illusions about reality are ruptured by incontrovertible facts like the death of a parent or a bolt of lightning A report from the front line of the online generation Sunday Times Picnic Comma Lightning is an essential account of how we've started to make sense of our strange new world Renaissance Drama 34 Jeffrey Masten, Wendy Wall, W. B. Worthen, 2006-07-31 Renaissance Drama an annual and interdisciplinary publication is devoted to drama and performance as a central feature of Renaissance culture The essays in each volume explore traditional canons of drama the significance of performance broadly construed to early modern culture and the impact of new forms of interpretation on the study of Renaissance plays theatre and performance This issue of Renaissance Drama devoted to the topic of Media Technology and Performance is co edited by W B Worthen Wendy Wall and Jeffrey Masten The various articles displayed here address the interface between drama and its various modes of production over the past four centuries This volume explores the relationship of drama to other forms of early modern spectacle pageantry masques to the specificities of typography and the economics of the book industry to the intersection of drama with film and DVD production and to the way that stage technologies and theatrical economies of the 16th 17th and 20th centuries define plays and playing Rather than thinking of the early modern text as something simply reconstituted in its different incarnations these essays make clear that different media force a rethinking of the terms that we use to envision conceptualize and even to see the work of drama The Amateur Stage ,1927 Cracking Morse Code Adrian Page, 2000 Examining television drama from a semiotic viewpoint Cracking Morse Code explains the need to develop semiotic theory further in order to acknowledge all the sign systems that practitioners have exploited in successful television drama
