Emerging Market Economies and Financial Globalization Leonardo E. Stanley, 2018-03-15 In the past foreign shocks arrived to national economies mainly through trade channels and transmissions of such shocks took time to come into effect However after capital globalization shocks spread to markets almost immediately Despite the increasing macroeconomic dangers that the situation generated at emerging markets in the South nobody at the North was ready to acknowledge the pro cyclicity of the financial system and the inner weakness of decontrolled financial innovations because they were enjoying from the great moderation Monetary policy was primarily centered on price stability objectives without considering the mounting credit and asset price booms being generated by market liquidity and the problems generated by this glut Mainstream economists in turn were not majorly attracted in integrating financial factors in their models External pressures on emerging market economies EMEs were not eliminated after 2008 but even increased as international capital flows augmented in relevance thereafter Initially economic authorities accurately responded to the challenge but unconventional monetary policies in the US began to create important spillovers in EMEs Furthermore in contrast to a previous surge in liquidity funds were now transmitted to EMEs throughout the bond market The perspective of an increase in US interest rates by the FED is generating a reversal of expectations and a sudden flight to quality Emerging countries currencies began to experience higher volatility levels and depreciation movements against a newly strong US dollar are also increasingly observed Consequently there are increasing doubts that the unexpected favorable outcome observed in most EMEs at the aftermath of the Global Financial Crisis GFC would remain World Economic Outlook, October 2017 International Monetary Fund. Research Dept.,2017-10-10 The global upswing in economic activity is strengthening Global growth which in 2016 was the weakest since the global financial crisis at 3.2 percent is projected to rise to 3.6 percent in 2017 and to 3.7 percent in 2018 The growth forecasts for both 2017 and 2018 are 0.1 percentage point stronger compared with projections earlier this year Broad based upward revisions in the euro area Japan emerging Asia emerging Europe and Russia where growth outcomes in the first half of 2017 were better than expected more than offset downward revisions for the United States and the United Kingdom But the recovery is not complete while the baseline outlook is strengthening growth remains weak in many countries and inflation is below target in most advanced economies Commodity exporters especially of fuel are particularly hard hit as their adjustment to a sharp step down in foreign earnings continues And while short term risks are broadly balanced medium term risks are still tilted to the downside The welcome cyclical pickup in global activity thus provides an ideal window of opportunity to tackle the key policy challenges namely to boost potential output while ensuring its benefits are broadly shared and to build resilience against downside risks A renewed multilateral effort is also needed to tackle the common challenges of an integrated global economy policymakers across economics education and public policy Regional Economic Outlook, April 2017, Sub-Saharan Africa Céline Allard, 2017-05-09 Growth momentum in sub Saharan Africa remains fragile marking a break from the rapid expansion witnessed since the turn of the millennium 2016 was a difficult year for many countries with regional growth dipping to 1.4 percent the lowest level of growth in more than two decades Most oil exporters were in recession and conditions in other resource intensive countries remained difficult Other nonresource intensive countries however continued to grow robustly A modest recovery in growth of about 2.6 percent is expected in 2017 but this falls short of past trends and is too low to put sub Saharan Africa back on a path of rising living standards While sub Saharan Africa remains a region with tremendous growth potential the deterioration in the overall outlook partly reflects insufficient policy adjustment In that context and to reap this potential strong and sound domestic policy measures are needed to restart the growth engine
