Accidental Occidental:

Re-Inventing the Postcolonial (in the) Metropolis Cecile Sandten, Annika Bauer, 2016-09-27 The notion of the postcolonial metropolis has gained prominence in the last two decades both within and beyond postcolonial studies. Disciplines such as sociology and urban studies however have tended to focus on the economic inequalities, class disparities and other structural and formative aspects of the postcolonial metropolises that are specific to Western conceptions of the city at large. It is only recently that the depiction of postcolonial metropolises has been addressed in the writings of Suketu Mehta, Chris Abani, Amit Chaudhuri, Salman Rushdie, Aravind Adiga, Helon Habila, Sefi Atta and Zakes Mda among others. Most of these works probe the urban specifics and physical and cultural topographies of postcolonial cities while highlighting their agential capacity to defy appropriate and abrogate the superimposition of theories of Western modernity and urbanism. These ASNEL Papers are all concerned with the idea of the postcolonial in the metropolis from various disciplinary viewpoints as drawn from a great range of cityscapes spread out over five continents. The essays explore on the one hand ideas of spatial subdivision and inequality, political repression, social discrimination, economic exploitation and cultural alienation and on the other the possibility of transforming, reinventing and reconfiguring the postcolonial condition in and through literary texts and visual narratives. In this context, the volume covers a broad spectrum of theoretical and thematic approaches to postcolonial and metropolitan topographies and their depictions in writings from Australia and New Zealand, South Africa, South Asia and greater Asia as well as the UK, addressing issues such as modernity and market economies but also caste, class and social and linguistic aspects. At the same time, they reflect on the postcolonial metropolis and postcolonialism in the metropolis by concentrating on an urban imaginary which turns on notions of spatial subdivision and inequality, political repression, social discrimination, economic exploitation and cultural alienation as the continuing postcolonial condition.

Local author Maria Goodavage and her trusty companion Jake have dug up many surprising resources available to dogs in the Golden State such as baseball games, summer camps and pet parades. For the less outdoorsy dog, there are doggy spas, art openings and even winery visits. Packed with helpful maps, up to date leash laws and a useful paw ranking system for all locations in the book, The Dog Lover's Companion to California is a dog's best friend. Returning □ Remitting □ Receiving LIT Verlag, 2023-06-21 This volume is the result of an international research project that drew together perspectives from three countries in Central, Eastern and South Eastern Europe: Croatia, Lithuania and Poland. It explores the under-researched phenomenon of immaterial values and resources that returning migrants bring with them as they have the potential to contribute to economic development together with the social, political and cultural change in their countries of origin. The authors explore the mechanisms, challenges and successes of the process of social remitting by returnees to these countries.
