Aristotle's Theory of Abstraction Allan Bäck, 2014-07-02 This book investigates Aristotle's views on abstraction and explores how he uses it. In this work the author follows Aristotle in focusing on the scientific detail first and then approaches the metaphysical claims and so creates a reconstructed theory that explains many puzzles of Aristotle's thought. Understanding the details of his theory of relations and abstraction further illuminates his theory of universals. Some of the features of Aristotle's theory of abstraction developed in this book include: abstraction is a relation; perception and knowledge are types of abstraction; the objects generated by abstractions are relata which can serve as subjects in their own right whereupon they can appear as items in other categories. The author goes on to look at how Aristotle distinguishes the concrete from the abstract; paronym; how induction is a type of abstraction which typically moves from the perceived individuals to universals; and how Aristotle's metaphysical vocabulary is relational. Beyond those features, this work also looks at how universals, accidents, forms, causes, and potentialities have being only as abstract aspects of individual substances. An individual substance is identical to its essence; the essence has universal features but is the singularity making the individual substance what it is. These theories are expounded within this book. One main attraction in working out the details of Aristotle's views on abstraction lies in understanding his metaphysics of universals as abstract objects. This work reclaims past ground as the main philosophical tradition of abstraction has been ignored in recent times. It gives a modern version of the medieval doctrine of the threefold distinction of essence made famous by the Islamic philosopher Avicenna.

Aristotelian Metaphysics David Bronstein, Thomas Kjeller Johansen, Michail Peramatzis, 2024-05-01 This volume provides a rich collection of original essays on Aristotle's metaphysics written by sixteen prominent scholars in the field. Honouring the seminal influence of David Charles to philosophical scholarship, it offers fresh interpretations and assessments of Aristotle's thinking in metaphysics and related areas such as philosophy of language, psychology, natural philosophy, and mathematics. The collection contributes to the recent resurgence of interest in Aristotelian metaphysics, furthering our understanding of Aristotle's seminal contribution to the history of western philosophy. It evaluates key features of Aristotle's metaphysical thinking: his accounts of definition and meaning; his understanding of being and the categories; his models of explanation, causation, and accounts of modality, space, and change. The chapters are written with clarity and attention to the detail of Aristotle's texts but presuppose no knowledge of ancient Greek and can be read with benefit by advanced philosophy students and scholars.

Radix Naturalis Craig Cramm, 2020-10-30 The substance of this present work is liberation semiology. The world's own principle is love agape. Our fellow creatures are co-symbols of emancipation from human violence. Creation is not as influential modern thinkers envision: mere material, mere nature to commodify and dominate for the freedom of an exclusive constituency of our species. The ecological crisis emerges from a tragic misfit between experiments with secular sovereignty and the continuance of Christian historicity. Either the Christian form of life of time is replaced, revealing a new ecological worldview, or we revive Christian sovereignty as a creative fit with the actuality of Christian historicity This work wagers on the latter Christian civilization is coextensive with ecological civilization Aristotle and Confucius on Rhetoric and Truth Haixia Lan,2016-11-10 Readings of Aristotle s and Confucius teachings reveal that both philosophers rhetorical thinking contain vital similarities which can help us understand cultural differences today Much has been said about Aristotle s definition of rhetoric as the faculty of observing in any given case the available means of persuasion but few studies have focused on his depiction of rhetoric as partly like dialectic and partly like sophistical reasoning Yet this Aristotelian conception of rhetoric sheds light on a similarity with Confucius teaching both Confucius and Aristotle see the human understanding of the truths of things as necessarily having a dimension that is open ended and discursive
