battleships to PT boats Small though they were the PT boats played a key role Like most naval ships they could carry out numerous tasks with dispatch and versatility In narrow waters or in fighting close to land they could deliver a powerful punch with torpedo or gun On occasion they could lay mines or drop depth charges They could speed through reefs and shark infested waters to rescue downed pilots or secretly close the shore to make contacts with coast watchers and guerrilla forces PT boats were an embodiment of John Paul Jones words I wish to have no connection with any ship that does not sail fast for I intend to go in harm s way Naval strength must function from shore to shore and on inland waters where the mobility and flexibility provided by ships can be employed to support land operations PT boats filled an important need in World War II in shallow waters complementing the achievements of greater ships in greater seas This need for small fast versatile strongly armed vessels does not wane In fact it may increase in these troubled times when operations requiring just these capabilities are the most likely of those which may confront us The thorough and competent account herein of over all PT boat operations in World War II compiled by Captain Robert Bulkley a distinguished PT boat commander should therefore prove of wide interest The widest use of the sea integrated fully into our national strength is as important to America in the age of nuclear power and space travel as in those stirring days of the birth of the Republic President John F Kennedy At Close Quarters Robert Johns Bulkley (Jr.),Ernest McNeill Eller (Admiral.),John Fitzgerald Kennedy,1962 *At Close Quarters.
