Always Outnumbered, Always Outgunned Walter Mosley, 1998 Only eight years after serving out a prison sentence for murder Socrates Fortlow lives in a tiny two room Watts apartment where he cooks on a hot plate scavenges for bottles drinks and wrestles with his demons Struggling to control a seemingly boundless rage as well as the power of his massive rock breaking hands Socrates must find a way to live an honorable life as a black man on the margins of a white world a task which takes every ounce of self control he has The Mystery of Mysteries Samuel Coale, 2000 Four American mystery writers have contributed new dimensions to the mystery form Tony Hillerman s Navajos and their customs Amanda Cross s Carolyn Heilbrun s academics and their feminist credentials or lack thereof James Lee Burke s Southern Louisiana Cajuns and his own fiercely moral take on Southern gothic fiction and Walter Mosley s urban blacks and their culture have challenged the conventional mystery s focus Using feminist and black critical theory mythic and historical patterns and literary genre theory Samuel Coale examines these writers works and investigates the compromises that each is forced to make when working within a recognizably popular literary form Walter Mosley's Detective Novels Agustín Reyes Torres, 2011-11-28 Basat en la perspectiva de la identitat la consciència i la subjectivitat dels estudiosos negres com Stuart Hall Bell Hooks Cornel West Henry Louis Gates Jr i W I B Du Bois al costat de l'enfocament postcolonial de crítics com Bill Ashcroft Gareth Griffiths Helen Tiffin i Homi Bhabha entre d'altres aquest llibre proporciona el marc teòric necessari per a analitzar les novel·les d'Easy Rawlins escrites per Walter Mosley l'autor s'apropia de les convencions de la novel·la detectivesca per tal de representar la societat americana dels cinquanta i seixanta des d'una perspectiva marginal La subjectivitat d'Easy Rawlins està determinada pel seu paper com a detectiu la seva consciència postcolonial com a home negre que ha crescut en una societat dominada pels blancs i per la seua inclinació i defensa d'una forta cultura afroamericana

Breaking the Silence David Ikard, 2007-02 Can black males offer useful insights on black women and patriarchy Many black feminists are doubtful Their skepticism derives in part from a history of explosive encounters with black men who blamed feminism for stigmatizing black men and undermining racial solidarity and in part from a perception that black male feminists are opportunists capitalizing on the current popularity of black women's writing and criticism In Breaking the Silence David Ikard goes boldly to the crux of this debate through a series of provocative readings of key African American texts that demonstrate the possibility and value of a viable black male feminist perspective Seeking to advance the primary objectives of black feminism Ikard provides literary models from Chester Himes's If He Hollers Let Him Go James Baldwin's Go Tell It on the Mountain Toni Morrison's Paradise Toni Cade Bambara's The Salt Eaters and Walter Mosley's Always Outnumbered Always Outgunned and Walkin the Dog that consciously wrestle with the concept of victim status for black men and women He looks at how complicity across gender lines far from rooting out patriarchy in the black community has allowed it to thrive This complicity Ikard explains is a process by which victimized groups invest in victim status to the point that they unintentionally concede power to their victimizers and engage in patterns of behavior that are perceived as revolutionary but actually reinforce the status quo While black feminism has fostered important and necessary discussions regarding the problems of patriarchy within the black community little attention has been paid to the intersecting dynamics of complicity By laying bare the nexus between victim status and complicity in oppression Breaking the Silence charts a new direction for conceptualizing black women's complex humanity and provides the foundations for more expansive feminist approaches to resolving intraracial gender conflicts

Reading Without Maps? Den Tandt Christophe (ed.), 2005 Among the intellectual debates of the last forty years the critique of cultural canons has attracted the highest share of public attention stirring academic educational and media controversies on both sides of the Atlantic Postmodernism feminism postcolonialism and multiculturalism have refashioned the attitudes of educators and audiences towards cultural memory opening up curricula to subjects and traditions previously excluded from the humanities Predictably these new critical practices have triggered heated responses from commentators fearing that culture and education might thereby be deprived of their capacity to provide audiences and learners with proper groundings and landmarks The present volume gathers contributions that throw light on multiple aspects of this reconfiguration of cultural memory It brings together essays focusing on the dynamics of canon formation in several fields literature drama film and music Contributors examine how writers and communities find their bearings in a cultural landscape more complex than that previously envisaged by advocates of the Great Tradition Specifically the present essays throw light on the status of modernist writing drama in English or popular genres within the new canonical topography elaborated at the turn of the twenty first century
